B.C. Asks Medicare Deterrent

By FRANK RUTTER

(See story Page 3)

OTTAWA — B.C. wants to charge the public a basic fee for medicare like the existing $1 a day hospital insurance plan. The provincial government also wants full administrative control of medicare and is opposed to an independent commission running it.

These were the two major conditions laid down here Tuesday by Health Minister Eric Martin at a federal-provincial medicare conference.

The B.C. government in a brief presented to Health Minister Judy LaMarsh and other provincial ministers endorsed the principles of the Hall royal commission report.

But Mr. Martin strongly objected to some specific recommendations which he said violated the constitutional rights of the provinces. The main one was the commission's proposal for independent boards to run medicare in each province.

WONT RELINQUISH

"Any such suggestion is contrary to the constitutional authority vested in the province to administer its health programs and B.C. will not relinquish its responsibility in this regard," Mr. Martin said.

His idea for medicare is to impose a deterrent fee which would attempt to discourage indiscriminate use of the scheme by the public.

This fee would be in addition to any medicare tax. No amount was mentioned at Tuesday's conference, which dealt in broad principles.

In fact Mr. Martin said that B.C. is not yet ready for medicare and wants more time to study the royal commission report.

He said the provinces should be completely free to raise medicare money any way they choose. The federal government would pay half the cost.

However, it was learned that what he has in mind is a fee similar to the BCHS charge. All hospital patients must pay $1 a day toward their bills.

But Mr. Martin wants to go a step further.

At present the federal and provincial governments share equally the cost of a patient's day in hospital after the $1 has been deducted.

Mr. Martin proposed that the BCHS agreement be changed so Ottawa would pay half the total bill, or an additional 50 cents to cover half the patients' $1 charge.

A similar arrangement would follow for all medicare services.

This would mean the B.C. government would directly pay slightly less than half of the health bill.

The patient would have to make a small contribution in addition to any taxes he might pay.

Bennett Pledges Bank Share Will Not Be More Than 10%

Denies Politics Before Senators

By FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

OTTAWA — Premier W. A. C. Bennett today countered charges that the Bank of B.C. will be political by slashing the amount of provincial government investment.

He set a firm limit of 10 per cent and told the senate banking committee it may be less than 5 per cent.

But he stuck to his guns on some government participation in the $100 million bank.

"I want to make very clear the intention of the government to buy shares," he said.

UNIQUE ROLE

It became obvious as soon as senators began cross-examining the premier that the main opposition to the bank is the unique role the B.C. government is playing in promoting it.

And Mr. Bennett, who first obtained the authority of the B.C. legislature to buy 25 per cent of the bank shares, cut it to 10, and later in the morning to "maybe even less than 5 per cent."

He also agreed to a clause in the bank charter limiting government investment of any kind to 10 per cent.

Mr. Bennett announced that he has lined up "an outstanding Canadian banker"—whom he will identify later—to be president and chief executive officer of the Vancouver-based bank.

Einar M. Gunderson, one of the banks' provisional directors, told the senators that "conversations have taken place" and the mystery banker is willing to take the job.

O'LEARY PROBES

Sen. Gratton O'Leary moved in on the political angle by asking if the B.C. government would still insist on being a shareholder if the bank's stock issue becomes oversubscribed by the public.

"The larger the public subscription the smaller the government buys," replied Mr. Bennett.

"It will most likely be less than 10 per cent, maybe even less than five."

But the government will insist on buying shares, he said, because "we want to make sure no little group gets control of this bank and amalgamates with another bank."

Mr. Bennett assured Sen. Thomas Crerar that there will be no additional government investment in an indirect way such as through crown corporations.

"Any government would be very stupid indeed to try to run a partisan bank," the premier said. "It would be a most foolhardy thing" because those adversely affected by bank loan policies would turn against the government.

Sen. Crerar wondered what would happen if in the future there was a socialist government in B.C., which presumably might seek further control of the bank.

The premier agreed to having a specific limit of 10 per cent direct or indirect government investment being set out in the bank charter.

Mr. Bennett said the whole $100 million capital stock of the bank would be issued to launch it.

The stock price has not been set, Mr. Gunderson added, but it will be sufficiently above par

Socred Critics Want Bank Bennett Crows

OTTAWA—The worst critics of the Social Credit government have signed petitions backing the Bank of B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett said here today.

He read a glittering list of prominent names to support his submission for a bank charter before the senate banking committee.

They include J. Stuart Keate, former publisher of the Victoria Times and now publisher of the Vancouver Sun.

"Of our worst critics in all the years, it's been the Victoria Times and the Vancouver Sun—and here's the former publisher of the Times and the present publisher of the Sun that has signed this petition," Mr. Bennett said.

Also on the petition was the signature of Donald Cromie, the previous Sun publisher.

A total of 12,505 people have signed petitions urging the parliament to approve a charter. Mr. Bennett said.

They include prominent members of the Liberal and Conservative parties.

"How can anybody say that this is a political bank?" the premier asked the senate after reading about 30 names.

They included two former Lieutenant-Governors, Frank M. Ross and Clarence Wallace; noted Conservative Leon Lader of Vancouver; former mayor Beth Wood of New Westminster; ex-mayor of Vancouver Fred Hume; oil tycoon Frank McMahon; philanthropist Walter Koerner; lawyer C. W. Brazier and wine king Pasquale Capozzi.

Stuart Keate, Sun publisher, made the following comment on the premier's statement:

"When Waldo Skillings approached me to sign the petition, I said I would do so on condition that the government would agree to follow The Sun editorial policy, which was that the bank should be divested of all political representation and influence."

Exiles Routed

Defence Shift Aug. 1

OTTAWA (UPI)—Command of Canada's defence forces will be shifted from the joint chiefs of staff committee to the new integrated high command Aug. 1, it was learned today.

Commandos Dropped

BIEN HOA AIRBASE, VIETNAM (UPI)—The Vietnamese air force commander disclosed today that South Viet Nam-Is parachuting commandos into Communist North Viet Nam. He called for a northward attack that would destroy the Communist capital of Hanoi and extend even into Red China.

NEW YORK (AP)—Racial violence and widespread looting broke out in Brooklyn's Negro section throughout the night. Police bullets critically wounded two Negroes.

Harlem, meanwhile, had its first relatively quiet night in four days.

In Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section police fired at looters. Dozens of store windows were broken. About two dozen persons were arrested.

On orders from President Johnson, FBI agents began an investigation of the disturbances. Mayor Robert F. Wagner was back from a European vacation trip he cut short because of the violence.

Acting Mayor Paul R. Screvane said the Harlem disorders had been incited in part by "fringe groups, including the Communist party."

He suggested the FBI agents might investigate the source of money for some street rallies and for some of the "very inflammatory... anti-American... and seditious statements."

LOOK INTO REPORT

Wagner said he would look into the report of Communist influence. He also said he did not believe federal troops or the national guard would be needed to preserve order.

Police reported a number of burglaries in Harlem, the big Negro neighborhood in Manhattan. A few shots were fired by police to disperse unruly gatherings. But there were no large crowds, demonstrations or anything like the weekend rioting

PEER INVOLVED

New Scandal Erupts In Britain

LONDON (UPI)—Newspaper allegations of "an alleged homosexual relationship between a prominent peer and a leading thug in the London underworld" exploded today into House of Commons debate.

The government informed the House that police have found nothing to substantiate the charges but had been ordered to investigate the material on which the "Sunday Mirror" based its claims.

The Sunday Mirror—which backs the opposition Labour Party—reported July 12 that a peer allegedly involved in the scandal was "a household name."

It said he had relations with a number of clergymen and London gangsters who were extorting thousands of pounds out of downtown clubs in a growing protection racket.

It also charged there has been instances of blackmail against persons "who knew of these relationships."

TO ARMS, MEN, WITH CATALOGUES

Army Ready, But It May Take a Little Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Question: Are the army's small arms and ammunition now locked up so tight that the army itself can't get at them?

An army order issued May 11—successful armory raids in Quebec occurred in January and February—spells out how to safeguard small arms and ammunition. For example:

"Locks shall be of the end-pressure resistant type. Where padlocks are used they shall be fitted to a steel-barred bolt or case-hardened staple. Bolts must be embedded firmly in the door jamb."

"Staples and hasps shall be secured by bolts and, following installation, bolt threads shall be burred to prevent easy removal of the nut."

"Padlocks shall have a resist force-surreptitious attack rating of P4-S2. Such a padlock is described in the Canadian Army Catalogue of Ordnance Stores under number 5340-21-109-6794."

Hunting up catalogue No. 5340-21-109-6794 to draw a padlock from quartermaster's stores appears near the end of a long list of instructions about how to keep weapons from falling into the hands of the Quebec Liberation Army or similar sinister organizations.

To begin with, small arms placed in storage must be stripped of breech blocks, bolts and magazines.

"The detached portions shall be locked in a safe, vault, cupboard, cabinet or strongbox in a separate room which has the same standard of security as that in which the small arms are stored," says the order.

The safe, vault, cupboard, cabinet or strong box must be bolted to a floor or wall. The key must be kept in a secure place.

The material of the walls, ceilings and floors of the storage rooms "shall be such that entry cannot reasonably be gained except by a determined effort."

Each storage room shall have one door only and the door must be covered with sheet metal on the outside or, preferably, on the inside.

"Doors shall be hung on at least three hinges that are not exposed on the exterior side when the door is closed."

Doors shall not have apertures, glass panels or transoms. Doors shall be double-locked with the locks set approximately one-third and two-thirds of the way down the door-jamb except those now in use with inset locks which shall also be fitted to the inside of doors so that they can be locked when anyone is working in the store-room.

"All windows shall be reinforced on the inside by No. 9 gauge steel chain link fencing, with mesh openings of not more than two inches, set in steel channel frames or the equivalent in a manner which shall prevent expeditious forcible entry."

"Where existing steel bars afford protection against entry equivalent to the steel mesh specified above, their use is acceptable provided they have holding cross bars to prevent the steel bars from being pried open."

And so on.

Vancouver Won't Part With Its 'Moby Doll'

A killer whale caught last week in the Strait of Georgia and now fighting for her life in a Vancouver drydock is not for sale.

"This is the finest aquarium specimen anyone could possibly have," Dr. Murray Newman, curator of the Vancouver Aquarium, told the Times today when he made it clear the whale will remain at Vancouver.

"Why would we sell it?" he asked. "We've waited long enough to get it."

If the animal survived and was sold to Marineland in Los Angeles it would be worth $1,000,000, said Dr. Newman.

INTEREST SCIENTIFIC

But Vancouver aquarium officials are interested in the whale for scientific, not commercial, reasons.

"We're definitely going to keep it," he said. "We know Mr. White (Charles White of the Undersea Gardens at Oak Bay, who has offered to pay $20,000 for the whale) would get rich if he had it, but we're not interested in that."

Officially dubbed Moby Doll by Dr. Newman, the 7,500-pound killer whale is reported to be working up a healthy appetite.

Today she devoured a second cod, which had been pumped with a massive dose of vitamin B-12 to stimulate her appetite, and two salmon. When the food was lowered into the flooded drydock today the whale became very excited and squealed loudly, aquarium officials reported.

Moby Doll is still making strange noises and scientists are trying to determine whether or not she is pregnant.

VANCOUVER DOOMED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Put that killer whale back in the sea, warns Malsie Hurley, or terrible disaster will befall Vancouver.

Miss Hurley, a 76-year-old expert on Indian lore, should know. Her country's Indian title is Chin-Sim-Klax, or mother of the fish-back whale. Fish-back is the Indian name for the killer whale.

"It will be terribly unlucky to keep the whale," said Miss Hurley, referring to the 17-foot killer whale Moby-Doll captured alive at sea and penned up here.

"Not only will disaster befall Vancouver but the whale will die."

ROUND-A-BOUT

By DOUGLAS HILLSIDE

It has been said by anti-intellectuals that the scholarly articles written by university professors are usually dull right from the first word of the title.

In defence, one has only to look at a list of the papers written by one professor—a zoologist at the University of Western Ontario—in 1961.

There is drama in "Spiders and harvestmen trapped on the surface of Spettigue's pond at London, Ontario."

(Were the harvestmen harvesting spiders? We may never know.)

There is poetry in "Melanagromyzatillae (Coud.) reared from linden bark galls at London, Ontario," as well as no mean feat of spelling.

Who could denounce as dull "Insects and other invertebrates associated with flowering skunk cabbage" or "Butterflies trapped by their feet in milkweed flowers"?

And for simple mystery, how about "Studies of the Byron Bog XII"?

Word-comes from the mainland that former Victorian Jean Dunbar is still riding high, wide and handsome.

Now living at Hanev with her mother, Mrs. Joan Dunbar, Jean is a hopeful contender for a place on Canada's next Olympic equestrian team, and her latest efforts towards this end were made at a show at Vancouver's Southlands Riding and Polo Club. Jean entered her hunter, Maori Legend, in six events and won them all in good competition.

Jean and "the Legend" are heading south soon to show their stuff at a four-day show in Washington and they are entered also in a top U.S. show at Pebble Beach, California, early in September.

The albino swallow mentioned in this column Saturday isn't really albino, according to Norman Kennedy of 1257 Staniel Lane.

Mr. Kennedy says the white bird was hatched and reared in a birdhouse in his backyard along with three normally-colored brothers and sisters.

But its eyes are black, not pink like an albino's should be, says Mr. Kennedy.

Victoria's swimming-dancing school teacher, Joan Elizabeth Biddle, will participate in the University of the Pacific's 17th annual folk dance camp on the campus at Stockton, California, starting Sunday.

The daughter of Canon George Biddle, rector of St. John's Anglican Church, Miss Biddle will be among teachers from Holland, Switzerland, Yugoslavia, Sweden, Canada and the United States attending the folk dance camp.

They will be taking a two week intensive work-study program of from seven to eight hours of classes daily, but only about half this time will be devoted to dancing.

Miss Biddle is a long-distance swim fan. She entered the 1955 mass swim in Georgia Strait and is a regular member of the New Year's "polar bear" swim at Yellow Point.

She has taught at Castlegar Junior-Senior High School, as well as in Nanaimo and Victoria and specializes in physical education, mathematics and counselling.

More than 2,000 travel agents and promoters of tourism from Canada and the U.S. will wing their way to Miami Beach, Florida, this fall to attend the 34th annual World Travel Congress.

And this time the world-wide travel experts will be hosted and welcomed by a committee headed by C. E. Blaney Jr., of Blaney's Travel Service, Ltd., Victoria.

The congress, which is being held Oct. 4 to 10, is expected to be the largest meeting of international travel experts ever held.

A B.C. Hydro line crew went beyond the call of duty last week when they stopped cutting trees on the West Saanich Road and took a woman to hospital in their line truck.

Linemen Tommy Musgrave, Bert Myers and Bob Armstrong were working in the 5900 block on West Saanich Road when they saw a woman waving to them from her backyard.

They answered her call and discovered that she had fallen and feared she had broken her leg.

The linemen attempted to call the woman's husband and doctor but when neither could be reached they took the woman to hospital, then returned to the job.

MOBY DOLL

If she is it is expected her young would be born next May.

A harpoon wound in her back is puffy and appears to be festering, but officials are hopeful that antibiotic injections shot into the whale will counteract any infection.

Dr. Pat McGeer, a neurochemist at the University of British Columbia, said he did not like the look of the wound, but he did not think the whale's life was in danger.

Dr. Newman reported today that the whale appeared to be in good health, but he had no idea how long it would live.

10,000 VISITORS

As many as 10,000 people have already visited the whale at the drydock and Tuesday Vancouver aldermen were among the visitors. They were told that the mammals swim continually in counter-clockwise circles and sometimes dive as deep as 2,000 feet without harm.

Scientists hope that their studies of the captive whale will help them in a breakthrough to ascertain why the warm-blooded mammal doesn't suffer harm as man does when he dives deep and comes up fast.

Meanwhile, as officials stand by the whale in the drydock, preparations are being made to move Moby-Doll to a permanent pen at a wharf near Jericho Beach. Royal Canadian Navy divers from Esquimalt, Royal Canadian Engineers and Army Service Corps men are co-operating in building the 75-by-45-foot pen.

Elsewhere in the Strait of Georgia, four killer whales were spotted Wednesday by the staff at the Nanaimo biological station swimming into the harbor there.

KILLERS COMMON

Killer whales are commonly seen in these waters but seldom are they spotted so close to land as has been reported this week.

In Victoria Mrs. James Barr, a former president of the Vancouver and Victoria SPCA, has started a petition to have the whale released.

"A whale is a very intelligent mammal," she said. "It suffers just like a human being. It's no different than keeping a man with a spear in his back in captivity."

She said the citizens of Vancouver seem to be "a bunch of savages." They are doing nothing to get authorities to release the whale. Instead, they go down by the hundreds to see a suffering animal with a hole in it.

Petitions are located at Lillian West's Bakery and the Good Shepherd Friendship Centre.

value to create a reserve comparable to existing banks.

At the start of the committee hearing four senators who are directors of existing banks disqualified themselves from voting on new bank applications.

It was Premier Bennett who first drew attention to the fact that they held the directorships.

Committee chairman Salter Hayden said there has been no holdup of bank bills because of this.

Applications will be considered "very promptly after the evidence"—maybe within a day—he said.

'FLORID PENS'

Sen. Hayden, one of the four, denied he was faced with any conflict of interest, but agreed not to vote on applications to prevent people "with florid pens and imaginations" from writing that he was.

Sen. H. M. Molson, said he and the Bank of Montreal of which he is a director support creation of new banks, but he, too, would not vote on them.

His stand was joined by Sen. Paul Henri Bourfard and Sen. Eric Cook.

Sen. J. W. DeB. Farris, sponsor of the B.C. Bank bill in the senate, launched the hearing by saying he can see no harm in B.C. government participation, and though no supporter, he admired the government's efficiency.

He also refuted any constitutional objection by saying that it is the right of the provincial legislature to decide what was purely a matter of property and civil rights.

In his brief, Mr. Bennett said his government's only interest in the bank is to support a principle and to ensure that it is developed on a sound basis.

"I want to emphasize the Bank of B.C. will be a private chartered bank," he said.

This will mean regulations and controls are set by the federal government.

URGENT NEED

The bank, he said, is urgently required—and wanted—by the people of B.C.

The reasons are economic, geographic and social, he said.

Vancouver is two-thirds of a continent away from the head offices of four of the existing chartered banks; the fifth head office, in Halifax, is nearer

BENNETT

Paris, France, than Vancouver, he said.

"In fact Vancouver is farther away from the head office of a chartered bank than any other city of comparable size in the free world."

Mr. Bennett called it an historical twist of fate that economic importance has come late to B.C., but since 1952, he said, B.C.'s growth has exceeded the rest of Canada in all fields.

He said B.C. is now in a position to boom Canada's economy even more than California has done for the U.S.

"What would the view of eastern Canadians be if all the head offices of the chartered banks were in B.C.?" he said.

"Until the Bank of B.C. is incorporated under federal law there will continue to be uneasiness and doubt that individuals, commerce, and industry in the province are assured their fair share at all times of the pool of national credit available through the private banking system."

Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Labor-Education Minister Leslie Peterson also presented briefs.

Mr. Bonner said the opposition to the bank has come from the government's persistent critics who do not represent a majority of the people.

Mr. Bonner said government investment will steady the market price of shares, provide business for the bank, and help get top employees.

He said it was inconceivable parliament would block government participation when it has granted a charter to the Mercantile Bank which is entirely owned by New York and Dutch interests.

No chartered bank—ruled by federal law—could possibly become political, he added.

Although they are not called banks, nine other provincial governments are engaged in the banking business through industrial and savings organizations, he said.

Mr. Peterson said the bank is vital to help B.C. overcome its current 5 per cent unemployment by encouraging new industry and meet its "explosive" development potential.

Medicare Plan To Take Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Lack of money and time for planning emerged Tuesday as two formidable roadblocks on Canada's road to the kind of medical and health services envisaged last month in the Hall royal commission's report.

Health Minister Judy LaMarsh said after a two-day closed meeting with provincial health ministers that all were agreed that such a system is inevitable. But she added some provinces are "pretty cautious," and all are worried about cost.

No conclusions were reached. Indeed, Miss LaMarsh said it will take her own staff six to eight months to "break down" the 4½ pound 500,000-word Hall report before she can decide what to recommend to the cabinet.

Next step, she said will be for Ottawa to choose the parts on the scheme on which it feels it can afford to share costs with the provinces.

"We hope to be able by early 1965 to develop a policy on how much of the plan we would be in a financial position to offer the provinces," she told a press conference.

BASIS FOR DISCUSSION

The minister said this offer would be regarded as a basis for discussion—not a take-it-or-leave-it proposition.

She said the provinces favor stage-by-stage implementation, but she gave no inkling of what stages Ottawa or any of the provinces would prefer to tackle first.

The Hall report proposed a tax-supported national system under which everyone would be entitled to the full range of services by physicians, plus physicians, dental care and eyeglasses for children under 18, and prescribed drugs with patients paying the first $1 on each prescription. The scheme would even include maternity benefits.

The commission said the provinces would set these programs in motion, "phasing in" various services as they saw fit.

Meanwhile, other steps could be taken right away. Notably, Ottawa could start sharing costs of hospital treatment for mental and tuberculosis patients.

This latter recommendation was accepted in principle by the conference, Miss LaMarsh said. However, it would cost the federal government an estimated $53,000,000 a year beyond the $420,000,000 it is paying this year toward regular hospital insurance.

She said she gave the provincial ministers no indication that Ottawa would be willing to assume these costs now or in the future.

DAVID CASS-BEGGS

Child's Leg Broken By Father's Car

A 14-month old baby is in fairly good condition today after being run over by the family car in the driveway of his home Tuesday evening.

Michael Darin, 721 Daisy, suffered a fractured leg when the car, driven by his father, Mahily Darin, accidentally reversed over him.

Mr. Darin told Saanich police he didn't know his son had followed him out of the house. Mr. Darin got in his car and reversed out of the driveway unaware the child was standing behind the car.

He felt a bump as he drove out but thought he was going over a stone. He kept going and only glanced back as he straightened out the car in the street.

Only then did he see his son lying in the driveway. Saanich fire department ambulance rushed the infant to Royal Jubilee Hospital.

'DIFFERENCE IN PHILOSOPHY'

Hydro Manager Dismissed By Saskatchewan Cabinet

REGINA (CP)—The $35,000-a-year head of the Saskatchewan Power Corporation, David Cass-Beggs, has been given a 30-day leave of absence after which his services "will no longer be required," Premier Ross Thatcher said Tuesday.

Mr. Thatcher made the comment in an interview following an announcement by Herb Pinder, industry and economic development minister, that Mr. Cass-Beggs had been given a leave of absence as general manager of the SPC. His salary is the highest in the Saskatchewan Civil Service.

"At the end of this time a settlement would be negotiated with him (Mr. Cass-Beggs)," Mr. Pinder said in a prepared statement.

Mr. Thatcher said the decision to give Mr. Cass-Beggs "leave of absence" was made by Mr. Pinder, who was vacationing in the northern resort of Waskesiu and unavailable for comment.

The premier said there was a "difference in philosophy and outlook on how a crown corporation should be run" between the government and Mr. Cass-Beggs.

EXCESSIVE RATES

"The government was not prepared to have the SPC continuing to charge excessive rates with virtually no profit," said Mr. Thatcher. "We were not prepared to see it borrow $50,000,000 a year for capital investment. We felt some of it should have come out of profit."

Last year's net profit was $1,000,000 Mr. Pinder said.

"This has been our stated view for eight weeks and nothing has been done about it," said Mr. Thatcher. "There was little effort to do anything about it and it will not be allowed to continue."

Mr. Pinder's statement said W. B. Cliphsham, assistant general manager in charge of engineering, has been appointed acting general manager of the SPC, largest Crown-owned corporation in Saskatchewan.

In an interview, Mr. Cass-Beggs said he had made a presentation to the SPC's new board of directors of facts and figures of other Crown-owned power utilities.

He said the report showed the profit position of the SPC was competitive and, in some cases better than that of other utilities.

Boy, 14, Charged With Bootlegging

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police said Tuesday they have charged a 14-year-old boy with bootlegging after he sold a bottle of liquor to a police detective. They said a raid on the house where the liquor was sold revealed 77 bottles of beer and 10 bottles of liquor. An adult, Fred Woodward, 22, was later charged with keeping liquor for sale.

FIRE GUTTED VESSEL TOWED BY RESCUE SHIP

NEW YORK (UP)—A French freighter, gutted by intense fires Tuesday, has been taken in tow by the same ship which earlier rescued all aboard the stricken vessel.

The Coast Guard reported that the 304-foot freighter Marquette caught fire in the Atlantic off the Newfoundland coast.

The French ore carrier Pentelena removed the Marquette's entire crew, about 25 men, and then began towing the still smoldering ship toward the Azores.

The Majority Has Rights

THE OBVIOUS PURPOSE OF the federal government's student loan bill is to help deserving young Canadians to go to and through university.

For many of them the financial load is too heavy. They need extra funds and if they can get them under favorable terms the assistance can equip them for more important and more rewarding positions. They benefit directly and Canada benefits by exploiting their talents in an age when the demand for highly educated young men and women is increasing.

There are certain technical difficulties in the way of providing this assistance — a point made by this newspaper's Ottawa correspondent, Mr. Maurice Western, in an adjoining column.

But this is not the objection raised by some of Quebec's spokesmen. They protest that the bill to make such loans available is a direct violation of the British North America Act, which vests jurisdiction over education in the provinces. The government reply is that providing loans is a financial matter over which the federal government has authority.

The position of objectors from Quebec is considerably weakened by the fact that the "ancient province" has opted out of the arrangement and will conduct its own plan to aid students, receiving cash from the federal government to assist the provincial scheme.

Basically jurisdiction over education does reside in the provinces. But in higher education, specifically in providing money, the federal government, with the acquiescence of other provinces in Canada, has already involved itself to a substantial degree. It provides grants to universities, national research council scholarships and other grants, including those to people involved in research for the atomic energy control board, and it furnishes educational assistance to the children of persons killed in the war as well as scholarships administered through other crown agencies. In addition federal contributions have been made to school buildings, including student residences.

Such monies have been gratefully accepted by students and by most universities, neither of which have more funds than they need and are engaged in a frantic scramble to collect what they require for the work they are trying to do.

There are obvious reasons why Quebec demands continued control over its educational system. The schools and some universities in that province differ in emphasis from public institutions in other parts of Canada and Quebec wants to keep it that way.

But the point made by Mr. Walter Gordon in debate this week must strike most Canadians as perfectly valid. He draws attention to the fact that majorities have rights, as do minorities.

The federal government doubtless will stand by that position on its loan plan—with suitable amendment of the present bill to render it constitutional.

And perhaps Quebec will appreciate this determination as it looks back upon those days when Mr. Duplessis rejected federal efforts to assist education so emphatically that education in Quebec suffered. The degree to which it suffered may have been indicated in the earlier stages of the continuing complaint by some French-speaking Canadians that they face discrimination in seeking higher postings.

When that argument was raised some time ago, certain heads of major companies risked unpopularity by declaring that senior jobs were given to those best qualified for them by education and ability.

That explanation left an obvious implication — and the implication leaves the rest of Canada's provinces unwilling to be influenced unduly by the Duplessis' opinion of what was good for Canadian education. Despite changes which have occurred since the departure of Mr. Duplessis, most Canadian provinces are disinclined to let the Quebec tail wag the educational dog.

The loan plan must certainly be made constitutional, but in its amendment Mr. Gordon's point cannot be ignored. The majority has rights, too.

The Ferries' Loss

NEWS THAT THE PROVINCIAL ferry system lost money on its operations for the first time last year will be somewhat disquieting for Vancouver Island residents who are so dependent on the service.

The loss, revealed in the mid-year review published this week by the provincial finance department, was not a great one and was more than made up by a subsidy from general revenues but it certainly reduces hopes for a cut in passenger rates in the near future.

The finance department figures show that while ferry revenues were up sharply to $11,740,074 from the previous year's $9,847, 527, operation costs also rose to $9,005,919 from $7,899,312. Addition of debt service charges turned the previous year's operating profit of $456,159 into a deficit of $136,823.

No doubt most of the reason for the change in the operating costs picture was the rapid expansion of the ferry fleet to its strength of 16 ships at the end of the fiscal year at March 31, 1964. But with two further ships in service this year and five more to be built in the next two years, there is a good possibility that operating costs and debt service charges will continue for some years to rise faster than revenues before the situation becomes stabilized.

Too Many Or Not Enough?

QUITE A ROW HAS BEEN stirred up between two professional organizations over the future needs for manpower in the fields of physics and engineering in the United States and it has relevance for Canada as well.

The fuss started when the American Institute of Physics put out a report predicting that by 1970 at the present rate of training there would be a deficit of 20,000 physicists in the United States without taking into account the additional need for high school physics teachers who are woefully lacking in numbers now.

At about the same time as the AIP forecast was published the engineering manpower commission of the Engineers' Joint Council reported a serious decline in the demand for engineers and stated that the softening market for their services had hit especially practitioners who have not kept up with modern developments.

The engineering group also attacked the physicists' projection of manpower needs as being unrealistic and based on government statistics which were long outdated. It pointed out that using the same statistics three years ago, the engineers' council had come up with predictions of serious shortages in the profession only to find that demand for manpower in the field has not kept up with supply.

This is a fairly serious difference of opinion because of the dependence of technological advance on highly-trained workers in both physics and engineering, which are closely allied in most fields.

If it is correct that there could be a deficit of 20,000 physicists within about six years, there is an implication that in Canada the deficit, on a proportionate basis, would be even larger due to the steady drain of trained professionals from this country to the United States.

If, on the other hand, the engineers are right in claiming that the physicists have used unreliable and outdated statistics to make their projection, then any large outlay of funds and guidance of students into an expanded physics teaching program would be financially wasteful and lead to disappointment for the students.

Physics and engineering have been the "glamor" professions for quite a few years now, often to the detriment of other professions which are short of practitioners. The current dispute brings home the need for government, industry and the professions to co-operate in the statistical research which will produce projections of manpower needs in all fields more meaningful than the random and sometimes off-hand predictions given so often by one group or another. The task should not be beyond the powers of the wondrous "electronic brains" which the physicists and engineers, with the backing of government and industry, have developed.

"About the uniform, Mr. Imlach, I have a suggestion . . ."

FROM OTTAWA

Loans and a Constitutional Point

THE government has encountered an unsuspected constitutional difficulty in seeking to implement its student loan project. This has nothing to do with the vociferous protests of those Quebec Conservatives and Creditistes who regard the measure as an unwarranted invasion of Quebec's exclusive jurisdiction over education.

It is difficult, for two reasons, to take the objections of Quebec members very seriously. The government's position is that the matter relates to banking, which, under section 91 (15) of the British North America Act, is clearly a federal field. But even if there is doubt on this point, Quebec is in no obvious danger because it is contracting out of the scheme.

Mr. Lesage already has a plan in operation, which is said to be more generous than its federal counterpart. Quebec will continue on her present course and will be affected only by section 12 of the bill which provides for compensation to non-participating provinces.

Delegation of Power

The more serious obstacle, pointed out by Mr. Brewin, an NDP member and a distinguished constitutional lawyer, has been conspicuously ignored by Quebec critics. It is reminiscent of the Eskimo controversy because it has to do with the delegation of powers. There is no reason to regard it as insuperable; indeed, Mr. Brewin, in his constructive speech, suggested a remedy which Mr. Pennell, parliamentary secretary to the minister of finance, agreed was valid.

In its present form the bill would delegate to lieutenant-governors in council the duty of designating appropriate authorities to issue certificates of eligibility for student loans, and also to designate institutions of learning qualified to give appropriate courses. But the Supreme Court of Canada, in its unanimous 1951 decision in a Nova Scotia case, found that inter-delegation was unconstitutional. The reason given was that Parliament and the legislatures are co-ordinating bodies, sovereign in their respective fields, drawing their powers from the same source, the British North America Act. Delegation can only be valid where the recipient is a subordinate body. It is the opinion of very competent lawyers that, in cases concerning the grant of administrative powers, the courts would be guided by the basic legislative position.

Mr. Brewin's case does not affect the parliamentary situation, because members of other professions are inclined to be impatient with the nagging doubts of constitutional lawyers.

Court Precedents

Thus Mr. Winkler, the Conservative whip, stoutly maintained that "regardless of the constitutional arguments or involvements, I am prepared to support every inch of this legislation, including the resultant problems that will be created." Unfortunately the record shows that some highly important acts (witness the new deal legislation of Mr. Bennett) have been thrown out by the courts despite the convictions and resolution of members who voted for them.

It would seem important, therefore, to ensure that the loans legislation does not suffer a similar fate.

Mr. Pennell, for the government, did his best last week to dispel Mr. Brewin's fears. He quoted first from the Canadian World Exhibition Corporation Act, passed by the Conservative Parliament, which provides that "the corporation shall . . . submit for the approval of the governor in council and the lieutenant governor in council its overall plan."

Whether or not, this particular act scarcely provides an adequate analogy. For there cannot very well be any real delegation of power when, as the above words imply, the governor in council retains a veto.

Mr. Pennell then cited sections 53, 524, 525 and 527 of the Criminal Code. These delegate power to carry out administrative acts regarding people declared insane and held in detention. Reference to the sections will show, however, that the recipient is the lieutenant-governor, not the lieutenant-governor-in-council.

Difference in Positions

This may, constitutionally make a considerable difference because the lieutenant-governor is a federal officer. He is not only appointed by the governor-in-council but, according to the BNA act, holds office during the pleasure of the governor-general. Two lieutenant-governors have, in fact, been removed. But the lieutenant-governor-in-council, that is to say the government of a province, cannot be so held to account.

It is equally doubtful that a provincial government has the right to accept such a delegation, especially when it has not been so empowered by provincial legislation.

Mr. Pennell's case is thus far from conclusive as, indeed he virtually admitted. It is interesting also that he characterized Mr. Brewin's suggestion as an alternative that was "valid" and that "did not affect the fabric of the bill." The suggestion was that the power be left with governor-in-council action on the recommendation of the provinces.

As time is short the government is naturally reluctant to accept amendments, especially if they raise the possibility of further delays for consultation with the provinces. Failure of the legislation through a constitutional defect would, however, be considerably more damaging. Mr. Brewin has obviously raised a serious doubt and one which deserves more attention than the arguments of Quebec nationalists now being scattered through the pages of Hansard.

'Sir Alec's Hope is Persuasion'

PREMIER IAN SMITH of Southern Rhodesia wasted no time in commenting on the Commonwealth prime ministers' conference. Less than 24 hours after the conference communique was published, Mr. Smith issued a critical statement.

He followed this with a more bellicose speech accusing the conference of interference, which he would treat with contempt. There would be no new constitutional conference, Southern Rhodesia would get independence on the basis of the present constitution. Independence would come preferably by negotiation with Britain, but it would come.

This initial reaction was fully expected here and is not seen to alter the situation. Britain is anxious not to prod Mr. Smith too hard or too publicly so soon after the conference. Prime Minister Douglas-

Home is stressing that Southern Rhodesia is a British and not a Commonwealth responsibility. They were therefore not interfering. They were just giving advice.

This may be tenuous semantics. Most of the prime ministers here thought and still think that Southern Rhodesia is a Commonwealth matter and that they were offering more than advice. They accepted the communique's wording to permit Britain to approach the final phase with the delicacy Sir Alec believes necessary. The only action he is taking at the moment is to seek Mr. Smith's acceptance of an invitation to come to London for informal private talks.

The African prime ministers allowed themselves to be persuaded to give Britain another chance by itself to bring about majority rule in Southern Rhodesia. They did so only because of their strong belief that a multiracial Commonwealth can be of value in a world increasingly dominated by racial problems. They did not want to split the Commonwealth—yet.

It is easy to foresee their frustration if Britain fails and the settler minority successfully grabs independence with white supremacy. The pressure for concerted action to reverse the situation would put the white Commonwealth on the spot.

This would especially be the case if military support were demanded. Britain has not taken up arms against British colonial settlers since the 1837 Canadian rebellion. But military intervention with British aid was openly mentioned at the Commonwealth conference, and talks with Africans here for the conference left no doubt that one of the long-range goals of the Organization for African Unity, which just met in Cairo, is to prepare for military action against South Africa and the Portuguese colonies if all else fails.

Southern Rhodesia will be added to the list if it gets minority rule independence. Southern Rhodesia has been building up a structure of white supremacy ever since the earliest machinations of Cecil Rhodes.

The decisive step leading to the present dilemma was the remarkable abdication of responsibility by Britain in an unparallelled 1923 decision making Southern Rhodesia the only colony in the history of imperialism to have complete control over all armed forces within its borders. Now, following the heavy defence expenditures of recent years, the settlers are confident they can defend their bastion of civilization.

Given the present state of emotions in Southern Rhodesia, threats will only drive the whites further in their fatal course. Sir Alec's only hope is persuasion. He must gently convince Southern Rhodesia's rulers that the plush economic structure of (white) society cannot survive the im- placable hostility of the outside world if independence is seized or majority rule long delayed.

Seats and Buses

Other than fighting tooth and nail against the proposed fare hike by the B.C. Hydro, the municipalities concerned should go no further at the present time.

The proposed hike in fares is a sterile act, a calculated coercive act designed to force a premature action on the part of the municipalities, which it now seems to be achieving.

At the risk of being called an ostrich, I feel we should dig in and resist all or any attempts for the early conclusion of any "deals". The expiration of the transit-franchises and the term of the present government will, in the normal course of events, closely follow one another.

If the transfer of the transit system to the municipalities is as inevitable as some believe, then logically, as the two events draw ever closer, it is conceivable that inducements will grow greater. The sacrifice of a half-dozen seats, and mayhap the balance of power, which could happen, may prove too high a price to pay for unilateral arbitrary action.

'Free' Bus Rides

The controversy continuing over the proposed bus fares will probably end in a sizable increase, but will still leave the transportation system with deficits yet to be met.

Now is the time this necessary public utility should once and for all be put on a sound financial and operating basis. The writer would like to present a new approach to our transportation dilemma.

Namely free bus rides. This sounds fantastic and illogical. No, not necessarily so. Our government is already in the transportation business, quite successfully too, thanks to our good premier. It seems just another step for them to continue to operate the bus system. The provincial income or sales tax could be increased to give us this type of bus service. B.C. would be unique in solving this problem that is dominion wide and below the border.

Everyone would benefit from free bus rides: more people in town every day, daily bus fare money spent in the various stores, more people would use the bus and leave their cars at home causing less traffic congestion. Bus drivers could concentrate on driving only, giving a safer and speedier service. Bus equipment deteriorates at the same rate whether they carry full capacity or half.

Remember your government is spending your money to meet the annual deficits, and this could continue even after increased fares. Let's ask Mr. Bennett to give the bus system another look—adopt free bus rides and pay the bill at the end of the year, lifting the load from those who would be hard pressed to meet the unbelievable 100 per cent increase.

ALEX. L. STEVENSON.

Extreme Critics

There is a strange irony in the fact that those who are so rabidly deriding the freewill choice of the large, conservative American Republican Party, are being more extreme than the one they are accusing has ever shown himself to be. Newspapers, politicians (one cannot be accused with the title "statesman" in grace then with the title "statesman" in this mean situation) of almost every country in the world, join with the Communists in a tirade of insult and invective such as Goldwater would not lower himself to be guilty of, showing beyond possible dispute who the extremists really are.

There is no doubt that many millions in the United States and the world at large are genuinely alarmed by the deflating swing to the left in America, Canada, Britain and elsewhere, over the past few years. We are closer to a communist takeover and the welfare state than most realize, and than many who do think care to admit.

At least two newspapers in Canada, and perhaps others not coming to our attention, have taken a sane, fair attitude: 1. Kelowna Courier, which says, "Mr. Goldwater appears to be drawing to him a large body of middle-of-the-road Americans who have grown somewhat tired of the steady trend towards socialism"; 2. Halifax Chronicle-Herald which, while admitting that like every other human including the late President Kennedy, President Johnson, the heads of other world governments and other lesser lights, Mr. Goldwater has many faults, "... he is not the devil incarnate. He is not a racist. He does not call Democrats communists. He does not want to drop an atomic bomb on Moscow or Viet Nam. He is for preservation of family life, thinks education is a good thing, and has never been known to kick a dog that doesn't deserve it."

Our newspapers are not guiltless in the present chaotic world state. No longer content to print the news and confine comment to their editorial columns, they must bombard us with columns from a half-dozen so-called political experts that we need not think for ourselves—and fewer and fewer are doing that.

A Few Forgiven Minutes

WE sat in the bus at the transfer point on the way to work the other morning—and we just kept sitting. The bus, sat, too.

The young ladies in the forward part grew a little restive. They work for a department store and the store was having a sale that day. They wanted to be down at least on time if not early.

The minutes ticked away and we kept sitting. The driver, who had left to put in a phone call, came back and he sat, also.

The muttering grew in volume and finally the driver came midway down the bus to speak quietly.

"The old gentleman in the front seat is lost," he told us. "It happens to him occasionally. His memory isn't very sharp. I've called the police to take him home and we are waiting for them now. Try to think about it as if he were your father. It makes a difference."

It made quite a difference to me and to others who had been chafing at the delay. We became participants in a small act of courtesy and the morning that was grey seemed a little brighter.

If you think about it, an incident like that hangs you up short. You realize how easy it is to become so engrossed in your own affairs that you haven't time for the small concerns of others. If you lose a few minutes and you are not responsible for the loss, you become annoyed. If you have an opportunity to find out why the time was lost, you may consider it well spent.

When I was younger and Victoria was smaller the slippage of minutes in a day—except hearing deadline—didn't seem to worry us much. So we spent a quarter of an hour listening to something someone wanted to tell us. Maybe we weren't particularly interested, but the person talking was pleased when he'd had his say.

YOUR HEALTH

Atrophy of the Optic Nerve

Occasionally an unhappy person writes to say that his vision is failing, and his ophthalmologist will not promise him anything because the trouble is an atrophy of the optic nerve—atrophy means a shrinking up, and the optic nerve is the big nerve that runs from each eye to the brain.

Now, my correspondent wants to know what this means in plain English? How was the disease diagnosed? Is there a cure, or is there any special treatment that is likely to do any good?

Will the disease cause total blindness, and if so, how long before this will come? Has the person a brain tumor? Will glasses help? Is the condition hereditary?

Optic atrophy occurs with certain diseases of the nervous system. An eye specialist, when he looks into the back of the eye with his electrically-lighted ophthalmoscope, can immediately see that the end of the nerve, where it comes into the eye, has lost some of its structure, perhaps its blood vessels, and its reddish color.

Some types of optic atrophy are hereditary in origin, some are due to degenerative changes in the brain; and some are due to the plugging-up of an artery that supplies the nerve with blood. Fifty years ago, a common cause of optic atrophy was chronic syphilis of the nervous system; today, with immensely better treatment, syphilis usually are kept from getting this form of blindness.

In most cases, when the optic nerve has become atrophic, there is no way of bringing

In the course of a day you'd probably interrupt your routine half a dozen times for such purposes. So you lost time. What did it matter?

That was one of the charms of Victoria—you had time.

A friend of mine brought it home to me when he returned from Toronto.

"It's all time and percentages down there," he said. "You're talking to someone and he starts looking at the watch on his wrist, moving away. You make an appointment to see somebody. You get there on the dot and in five minutes you seem to be losing him. He's looking at his watch, too. I don't know, it seems kind of unfriendly. Out here a friend or acquaintance isn't in so much of a rush that you feel you have to say what you want to say fast and break it up."

I've thought about that conversation several times. It seemed to me a sort of justification for the Sleepy Hollow atmosphere people from other cities used to attribute to us—and somehow it wasn't disagreeable to me.

Then, a few years after my friend had returned to Toronto, I met him down there. After greeting one another, he looked at his watch and said, "Look, if we slip along now we can drop into the store and pick up a parcel, then we can come back for the car and head home. We ought to be there in 35 minutes. Then we'll have half an hour before dinner and take it easy for the evening. I've only one call to make at 8:15 and I can do it by phone." He looked at his watch again and we moved off.

A little sadly I recalled to myself the conversation we'd had in Victoria when other folk considered it lotus land. Toronto and a watch on his wrist had changed my friend.

A little more sadly I find myself glancing at the watch on my own wrist these days, and figuring how I'm going to budget my time to get in what I think has to be done.

It makes me appreciate the 10 minutes I spent sitting in the bus the other morning. Some people here still have time for courtesy and consideration.

SOVIET ECONOMIC PLANS SNUBBED

Prospering Romania Balks At Turning Back Clock

A new nationalism is sweeping Romania, now in the throes of a giant industrialization program. It has meant an easing of ties with the Soviet Union and a slight turn to the west. Richard O'Regan, Associated Press chief of bureau in West Germany, tells what it means to the people of Romania in the following second of four articles on the situation in East Europe.

By RICHARD O'REGAN

BUCHAREST (AP)—When Communist Romania says no to the Soviet Union, it does not mean she is saying yes to the west.

Romania has gone farther in recent months in standing up to Russia than any country in East Europe. She has turned thumbs down on Soviet Premier Khrushchev's economic plans for East Europe. She has been kicking out Soviet cultural influences. But Romania remains as staunchly Communist as ever.

The Romanians have made a trade pact with the United States. They have cautiously let in many western ideas, many technicians and much western literature, music and theatre. But Communist party control here is tighter than in Hungary, Czechoslovakia and Poland. There's absolutely nothing to indicate Romania is moving closer to western political ideas.

Communist Chief Gheorghe Gheorghiu-Dej is drumming up national sympathies and the idea of "Romania for the Romanians"—a far cry from Communist internationalism. But every step that Gheorghiu-Dej takes is clearly designed to win popular support for the Communist party.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Vancouver is rapidly becoming one of the world's most important sulphur shipping ports.

Bulk loading facilities at Vancouver and at Port Moody a few miles east have been working close to capacity for the last few days shipping Alberta sulphur for various world ports.

Total exports to the end of June were 282,000 tons, with 95,000 tons scheduled for July and 63,000 tons for August. Last year's total sulphur shipment was 257,000 tons.

Plumber Strike Cripples Yard

VANCOUVER (CP)—Officials of Burrard Drydock Company in neighboring North Vancouver said Tuesday they are turning away most of the business being offered them because of a three-month plumbers strike.

The company said about 450 men are now employed on a few jobs, but as many as 850 could be working if the strike was settled.

The workers at the shipyard if restricted to the type of job it can accept and is forced to turn away most repair jobs.

A Burrard official said the shipyard if restricted to the type of job it can accept and is forced to turn away most repair jobs.

The spokesman said that as a result of the dispute "some kind of compulsory joint certification is inevitable" to prevent one union from doing up work employing members of many unions.

$65 Million Bid Wins Contract In N.W. India

TORONTO (CP)—Foundation Overseas, Ltd., of Toronto, has been awarded the major contract in the building of a $65 million hydro-electric power project in the Himalayan foothills of the Northwest India. A. Douglas McKee, company president, disclosed here Monday.

Mr. McKee said the contract was the product of 11 months of negotiations with the Uttar Pradesh state electricity board and would be a joint venture with Steelcrete (Private) Ltd., of India, with Foundation as the sponsoring company.

Construction on the development, called the Yamuna Hydel Power Project, is scheduled to start in September after the monsoon season ends, he said.

The project, second stage in a program to harness the swift Tons River, about 150 miles north of New Delhi, includes a diversion dam, two tunnels and two powerhouse capable of developing 340,000 kilowatts of electricity.

Mr. McKee said the Indian government has assured his company that foreign exchange to cover the five-year project will be available, with Indian firms supplying as much of the required materials and equipment as possible. Some international financing will be involved.

The Canadian firm will bring a number of Indian engineers here to study construction techniques as well as train native workers at the construction site, he said. About 4,000 laborers will be employed.

Victoria's first Pacific 66 service station was officially opened today by Pacific Petroleum Ltd., with Mines Minister Donald Brokenshire as the first customer.

Bloom Wilts As Empire Imperilled

LONDON (UPI)—John Bloom, who rode into the millionaire bracket on a cut-price washing machine, was reported fighting Tuesday to save his tottering financial empire.

At the same time, at least five Members of Parliament demanded the government open an official inquiry into the tangled affairs of Bloom's Rolls Razor Co.

The 32-year-old playboy-financier said last night "at this moment" there was no formula to save the firm, which announced last week it was folding because of lack of ready cash.

But it was a different story today.

Bloom, one of Britain's top post-war financial success stories, held a series of hurried and secretive meetings with London banks, brokers and his creditors.

Financial sources said, however, he still had a long way to go before finding a way out of the crisis.

GRAIN PRICES

WINNIPEG

WINNIPEG (CP)—Grain Exchange trade was again highlighted by an active floor market, although prices showed considerable irregularity. The market still reflected recent reports of severe damage to Manitoba flax, but some realizing appeared on top levels following the earlier broad advances.

Prices still showed occasional rallies, and exchange commodities generally were influenced by weather and crop reports indicating no important moisture in dry areas of Alberta and Saskatchewan.

NEW SHARE OFFERING

CHICAGO (AP)—Activity in the grain futures market became dull today after expiration of July contracts and prices generally were little changed on the Board of Trade.

BUT NONE BOLTED THE PARTY

12 Top Republicans Shun Goldwater Program

NEW YORK (AP)—A dozen Republican politicians, including New York's two senators, say they can't support Republican nominee Barry Goldwater for president—as of now.

None bolted the party. None said he would campaign for President Johnson.

Most said Tuesday they might back the Arizona senator if he clarifies or revises his views.

Senators Jacob K. Javits and Kenneth B. Keating of New York announced their stands in separate press conferences.

Both supported Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York for the Republican presidential nomination, and switched to Governor William Scranton of Pennsylvania when Rockefeller withdrew.

Javits, who is not up for re-election this year, said he would work for a state platform along the lines proposed by Scranton forces for a national platform at the San Francisco convention. He said he hopes Goldwater will do something to enable him to support the national ticket.

Keating said he hasn't decided if he will seek re-election this year, but if he does it will be as an independent Republican.

Rockefeller has said he would support the Republican ticket. But he sharply criticized the statement on extremism Goldwater made in his speech accepting the presidential nomination. Since then Rockefeller has made no further statement.

One prominent New York Republican, State Senate Majority Leader Walter J. Mahoney, said he expected that "all Republicans will be able to support the Goldwater-Miller ticket as the campaign unfolds." Representative William Miller of New York won the nomination for vice-president.

But other Republicans said they are holding off support of Goldwater. They included Governor John H. Reed of Maine, Representative Silvio O. Conte of Massachusetts, State Senate Majority Leader William E. O'zard of New Jersey, Senator J. Glenn Beall of Maryland, Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin of Baltimore, a former governor; and Representative James G. Fulton of Pennsylvania.

Fulton said he felt more akin to President Johnson than to Goldwater but might write in a vote for Scranton.

POPULAR DECISION

Senator Clifford P. Case of New Jersey said his mail is 20 to 1 in favor of his decision not to support Goldwater unless the Arizonan modifies his views.

McKeldin said he understood new voter registrations in Baltimore are 10 to 1 Democratic, while the normal ratio is 3 to 1.

Doctor Murdered

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The battered body of an internationally-known woman cancer researcher was found Tuesday on the floor of her fashionable apartment.

She had been stabbed eight times and her body apparently set on fire.

Police found the body of Dr. Mary Sherman, 51, while investigating a routine fire call.

Dr. Sherman was a widow who lived alone.

DOMINION HOTEL, as it looked in 1889.

They've Redone the Old Hotel

Twenty-nine years ago the Times reported "The Dominion Hotel has steadily kept pace with the advancement of the city, and the increasing demands of the travelling public in high-class accommodation and service."

The report continued, "one of the greatest improvements is the up-to-date plumbing and additional bathrooms... and the new lounge opening off the rotunda."

Today the Times reports the Dominion Hotel has once again installed new plumbing and brought its bedroom, dining room and lounge facilities up-to-date.

A two-storey wooden structure erected at the corner of Yates and Blanshard in the late 1870's was the beginning of the a hostelry that expanded into one of the most popular downtown commercial hotels.

Between 1889 and 1933 the hotel, owned and operated by Stephen Jones, grew into a three-storey brick edifice with 130 rooms.

The second-storey balcony, and the long bench outside the main entrance, gave way to a main lounge that "provides an ideal rendezvous for guests and friends and a spacious, and attractive setting for bridge parties."

And as the years went by there were many more changes, including a luxurious cocktail lounge, a barber shop and gift shop.

Then in 1962 Norman Loomer took over the hotel from Max Zabel, who had owned and operated it for 17 years. No sooner was the transaction completed than the president and general manager of the newly formed Dominion Hotel of Victoria Ltd. embarked on another major expansion program.

This time it is the dining rooms and the top two storeys which have been modernized to meet the demands of the tourist and the commercial traveller.

Besides the coffee shop and restaurant, the hotel now has accommodation for more than 200 diners in the new Terra Cotta banquet and dining rooms and the Dominion room with its hardwood floor for dancing.

Upstairs the ceilings in the corridors have been dropped, new lighting installed, and open stair wells closed in with dark stained panelling.

Corridor walls paneled in gold, and metallic black doors with gold trim, create the appearance of a modern-day hotel. There is not so much as a trace of the 19th century frame from inside the renovated rooms.

TWO FOR THREE Where, once there were three bedrooms with old-fashion plumbing, there are now two spacious rooms with the latest in plumbing facilities in between.

Not only are the new rooms more spacious but the canary-yellow and pearl-grey decor add the illusion of even more space and brightness.

When the renovations are completed the number of rooms will be reduced from 130 to 117, but what is lost in bed space is more than replaced by the comfort and convenience in the new deluxe suites.

Mr. Loomer is preparing for the day when the convention hall he envisages for the area will be a reality. Delegates attending the conventions can then enjoy the comforts and convenience of the new downtown hotel.

ALL NOT NEW But not all is new at the Dominion. There are still 10 old-timers on the staff, who between them have completed a total of 229 years of service.

On Thursday these same staff members will be on hand to welcome visitors to the hotel for the beginning of a three-day celebration honoring the completion of another stage of the renovation program.

Hostesses will be on hand to show local residents and visitors through the hotel and in the dining room there will be special treats for hotel guests.

IT'S A DUCKY SUMMER

Saleswise, Only Umbrellas Go Up

What's good for ducks is not so good for business if your business is selling deck chairs, sun suits or celluloid films.

From May 1 to July 20 this year the number of hours of sunshine is 127 hours below normal. In May "old sol" only missed by 10 hours from reaching normal, but in June fell behind by 77 hours. Already for the first half of July it has fallen behind by slightly more than 40 hours.

Not all cash registers reflect the sunshine, but those that do are reporting a below-normal intake.

It's not a year for awnings and sunshades, reported a tent and awning firm, but the outdoor types continued to buy camping equipment.

Department stores have still to tally up the debits, but sales managers have not had to rush through any orders for more deck chairs or chaise lounges.

One manager reported that although sales for lawn furniture were down, the sales for glass-topped summer dining room suits were creeping up.

Managers in sportswear departments have been left guessing all summer.

"We get one good day and sell a few bathing suits, then we wait for the next day to see if we should order more, and by then it is raining," said one manager.

The racks are still filled with suits and there are no orders in for more.

A photo supply firm also reported that their cash register was attached to the "modicum" of sunshine and sales are way down this summer.

All dairies but one, said ice cream sales were down and that one confessed sales could be better, "the sunshine is our best salesman."

Some motel operators report business is down, while others say business is improved over last year.

But as expected when the rains come, umbrella sales go soaring.

CD Training Step-Up Follows Militia Shift

Civil defence training responsibility will increase with a federal recommendation to release the militia from its national survival role, provincial co-ordinator John Erb said today.

For five years the militia concentrated on national survival training, particularly in the area of rescue work, and since a defence committee investigation of the militia this type of training has been de-emphasized and military support reinstated.

It will now be up to the provincial civil defence organizations to provide the light and heavy rescue training the militia was giving its members.

This type of training is also undertaken by municipal civil defence organizations on a volunteer basis.

Meanwhile, provincial CD has reported on its role during the Alberni tidal wave disaster in March, with one outstanding recommendation — for a system of disaster warning distinctive from the sirens used to warn of a military attack.

The report points out that tidal surges struck the Alberni Valley practically without warning and that there was no system of warning for civil disaster.

There was little CD organization. Port Alberni had abandoned civil defence some time previously, but there was some interest on behalf of the city in a re-organization.

Mayor Les Hammer was one of those showing interest.

Alberni, under Mayor Fred Bishop, had a CD organization that functioned.

All municipalities should possess a "loud and distinctive system of warning for civil disaster," the report from Mr. Erb's office says.

"The tidal wave took only 10 minutes to move from Bamfield to Alberni—a distance of 40 miles. The answer may lie in loud hailer mounted on local police units."

(Police did use hailer normally mounted on traffic control cars to help warn residents in low-lying areas of flooding.)

"No one in the Alberni is today skeptical of the need for a comprehensive and detailed civil defence plan detailing responsibilities to officials by position. The plan is in preparation with the unanimous support of both councils," the report said.

Civil defence points out that tidal waves striking the Alberni differed from normal flooding in that a crest travelling at 240 miles an hour swept up on a tide already eight feet above normal, smashing everything in its path.

RACE WAR HITS BROOKLYN

In which one man was killed and more than 100 injured.

In Brooklyn, the trouble started after a black nationalist street rally that drew about 500 Negroes. Firecrackers exploded in the crowd and many people scattered in panic.

More than 200 police moved in to quell the disturbance. They fired more than 150 shots in the air. Bottles were thrown. Store windows were broken. Subways were ordered to skip street stops in the area for a time.

The crowd broke up after an hour or two and police began getting reports of looting throughout the section.

About 24 Negroes were taken into custody.

AVENUE TORN UP

A police sergeant said Summer Avenue was "all torn up," with many store windows broken.

Small crowds gathered at stores where burglar alarms rang in the night. They cursed police whenever patrolmen appeared.

At police headquarters in Manhattan about 250 white teenagers hurled rotten eggs at 16 members of the Congress of Racial Equality, who were picketing Tuesday night against what they called police brutality.

Civil rights leaders staged several demonstrations, but nearly all were outside the riot-torn Negro sections of Manhattan and Brooklyn. One leader in the Brooklyn Chapter of the Congress of Racial Equality said the move was to protect C.O.R.E. members and others from "harsh tactics" of police.

Five demonstrators were arrested at city hall.

Serveance, acting mayor in Wagner's absence, was asked whether there is evidence that Communists had fostered some disorders.

"I don't think there's any question about it," Serveance said. "Some of the people who have been involved in some of the meetings and rallies that have been called... are known Communists, and I don't have any doubt about that.

"I would like to point out, however... that the whole rioting operation is directed toward the so-called fringe groups, including the Communist Party and some of the other more radical groups, and not involving the rank-and-file persons living in the Harlem community. They're as frightened as people who live outside of the community."

TAKE ADVANTAGE

Serveance also said that criminals and rowdy youths took advantage of the disorders.

President Johnson said in a statement issued in Washington that he telephoned Serveance. "I have told him," Johnson said, "of my willingness to co-operate in every way possible to help him in this time of agony."

"It must be made clear, once and for all, that violence and lawlessness cannot, must not and will not be tolerated... American citizens have a right to protection of life and limb—whether driving along a highway in Georgia, a road in Mississippi, or a street in New York City.

George Reedy, White House press secretary, declined to specify what measures, beyond the FBI investigation, might be included in the offer of co-operation.

Members of Congress gave Johnson's statement a mixed reaction. John J. Rhodes (Rep. Ariz.) said it was "politically expedient."

Senator Minority Leader Everett M. Dirksen (Rep. Ill.) said, "I am glad the president took the action without further delay."

Mayor Wagner, on his return from Europe, said he would broadcast a 15-minute address tonight on the Harlem situation.

'PLEASE, BILL, LEAVE THAT HORSE OUTSIDE—'

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI)—Jockey Bill Shoemaker and his wife have a problem—she's allergic to horses.

Mrs. Shoemaker has suspected the allergy and took tests at a clinic. Her suspicions were confirmed.

The jockey's wife hopes a drug can be produced to counteract the allergy. So does Shoemaker. When he returns from the track he has to undress in another part of the house and shower before greeting his wife.

SPORTS DIARY

By SHIPLEY POVICH
(The Washington Post)

WASHINGTON—Lately, the citizens of Milwaukee and St. Louis have taken to writing their senators and congressmen but not with the customary requests for seed catalogues and the latest federal agency pamphlets on infant-feeding. There is a note of urgency. They don't want to lose, respectively, their big league baseball and football franchises.

In Milwaukee, there is alarm because the Braves' owners have been responding somewhat to the go-go eyes being made by Atlanta, a seductive and well-studied hussy that is conducting two flirtations at once. Atlanta also wants the St. Louis National Football League Cardinals to bed down in its brand new $25 million park.

It is precisely because the owners of the Braves and the Cardinals are neither confirming nor denying that they will move to Atlanta in 1965 that this appears to be their intention. So, the fans and city officials of Milwaukee and St. Louis are making a kind of common cause.

Baseball Boys Play Dangerous Game

Sen. William Proxmire of Wisconsin said something about this the other day in warning the baseball people that they are playing a dangerous game, and now Sen. Symington has leaped into the battle on behalf of his Missouri constituents. He told the Cardinal football people to beware about moving their franchise.

In this situation, the National Football League people and their commissioner, Pete Rozelle, have more to be concerned about than baseball commissioner Ford Frick and his people. At this moment, the law of the land as spelled out by the Supreme Court happens to favor the baseball people, with their special exemption from anti-trust action.

Football and the other professional sports enjoy no such blessings from the law as the mustn't-touch position of baseball. This may be discrimination, but it also happens to be the law. Football is still subject to anti-trust action at the will of the department of justice and powerful senators could bring this about.

This is the implied threat when Senator Symington speaks to the brothers Charles and William Bidwell, who own the football Cardinals and who have been told in a letter that "there has been increasing concern in Congress about the frequent moving of professional teams from one city to another," also that the apparent privileged status enjoyed by professional teams under the anti-trust laws is not justified.

Congress Gave... Can Take Away

Milwaukee's fans are in a less fortunate position because it would require an act of Congress to stop a move by the Braves, and this is not managed as easily as a department of justice action citing the St. Louis Cardinals' move as in violation of anti-trust. In subsequent action, a federal court, not necessarily the Supreme Court, could stop a move by the team.

Commissioner Rozelle and his football people have need to be specially sensitive to any later restrictive action against them by Congress because they now enjoy bounties from Congress that add up to millions of dollars. What Congress giveth, Congress can take away.

One of pro football's tremendous legislative coups was its persuasion of Congress two years ago to permit the leagues to package and sell television rights to the networks despite what might have been monopoly aspects. Congress was indulgent in this matter and passed the law pro football wanted.

Instantly, pro football franchises almost doubled in value. The NFL peddled its television rights all the way up to $28 million on a two-year contract, triple the figure the league had been getting. Each of its clubs was thus guaranteed a million dollars in TV revenue yearly. And on that basis the Philadelphia Eagles' franchise was sold for $5.5 million.

Each Club Gets a Million From TV

This is what football has to lose in any contest with infuriated congressmen and senators seeking to protect their constituents from loss of status as a major league football city. Rozelle got his favorable television law through Congress but not, as yet, the immunity from anti-trust that baseball enjoys, although heaven knows he has tried.

Rozelle has taken no steps to have the Cardinals call off their intended move to Atlanta, but he just might, after all. He has been the supreme and effective autocrat in all National Football League affairs, but this could be a test with the law of the land that Rozelle may well decide is not worth the gamble.

Optimists Trampled In Babe Ruth Opener

SOCCER STAR A VICTIM OF LIGHTNING

LONDON (AP)—John White, star of Tottenham Hotspur soccer team, was killed by lightning Tuesday while playing golf.

His body was found under a tree on the golf course at Enfield, North London. Apparently he had taken shelter from a violent storm.

White, 26, helped Tottenham win the European Cup two years ago. He also played on the Scottish National team.

Coliseum Deal Delayed a Week

VANCOUVER (CP)—Mayor Bill Rathie said Tuesday negotiations between the city and Toronto Maple Leafs on the club's offer to build a 20,000-seat coliseum in downtown Vancouver will be delayed another week.

Mayor Rathie said he telephoned Toronto and was told that Stafford Smythe, Maple Leaf president, is out of town for at least a week.

City council has asked the Toronto club to put in writing its offer to build an $8,000,000 structure if the city will donate two downtown blocks. They say they will withdraw the offer if the city doesn't give a definite answer by Dec. 31.

NORTH VANCOUVER (CP)—

Another team dropped out of the provincial Babe Ruth baseball championships Tuesday.

Trail was eliminated Monday when it recorded its second loss and Vancouver-Fraserview dropped out when it lost 2-0 to North Vancouver-Capilano.

In the other game Tuesday East Burnaby trounced Victoria Evening Optimists, 15-2.

Still in the running are teams from Vancouver, two from North Vancouver, East Burnaby and Victoria.

'MORAL DEGRADATION'

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union's water polo team has been disbanded for smuggling foreign clothing into the country and will not go to the 1964 Olympic Games.

The team recently returned from a disastrous foreign tour that included losses to Romania and Yugoslavia, two ties, and only one victory.

The newspaper Komsomolskaya Pravda accused the team of "moral degradation" and attacked 10 of the 11 players as well as the coaches.

"They had no time to think of the outcome of the sports matches while goods for smuggling waited under their beds in the hotel," Komsomolskaya Pravda said.

The paper said the team was stopped at a Soviet customs checkpoint while returning from the trip.

"They turned white at the customs house when asked to open their suitcases," the newspaper said. "Their suitcases were full of foreign goods... Who needs so many clothes?"

"The water polo players tried to explain they bought them for their poor relations. That's a lie!"

SOMETHING TO KICK ABOUT

High-kicking man with nowhere to go is Jim Bouton. Trying to score from second base on single by Tony Kubeck Tuesday at New York, Yankee pitcher found plate blocked by big Washington catcher Mike Brumley, who thumped ball on Bouton for the out. Yankees had no kicks about Bouton's pitching. He tossed four-hitter to help Yanks grab 7-1 win over Senators and move back into first place in American League.

Baldschun Helps Write A 'Philadelphia Story'

By UP International

Philadelphia Phillies appeared to be throwing money down the drain in 1960 when they acquired Jack Baldschun for $20,000 in the 1960 major league player draft.

The red-haired relief pitcher from Greenville, Ohio, had kicked around in Cincinnati Reds' farm system for five years—hitting such minor league way-stations as Thibodaux, Wausau, Savannah, Visalia and Topeka without causing much of a stir.

However, after Baldschun posted a 12-9 record at Columbia, S.C., in 1960, the Phillies decided to grab him.

It was one of their better buys. Using a screwball as his best pitch, Baldschun was 5-3 in his rookie year in 1961, 12-7 in 1962, 11-7 last year and currently is helping write a new "Philadelphia Story" for the upstart Phillies.

Baldschun enabled the Phillies to re-open a one-game lead over the San Francisco Giants in the National League race Tuesday night when he pitched hitless ball over the final 1½ innings to preserve a 6-3 victory over Milwaukee Braves.

Although his record is a deceiving 3-4, lean Jack has saved five of the nine victories the scrambling Phillies have scored thus far this month.

YANKS IN FIRST

His latest effort was a typically strong mop-up operation. Taking over for Art Mahaffey in the eighth with the bases loaded, one out and the Phils leading 4-2, Baldschun got Hank Aaron to hit into a forceout at home and retired Joe Torre on a tap in front of the plate. He set the Braves down in order, in the ninth to wrap up Mahaffey's ninth victory in 13 decisions.

Bobby Wine and Tony Taylor homered off Wade Blasingame (2-2) to help the Phils finish a 3-0 lead and Wine singled home the decisive run in the eighth.

In other NL action, the Cubs edged the Giants 2-1, the Mets downed the Reds 4-2, the Pirates outsluged the Cardinals 8-4, and the Colts blanked the Dodgers 1-0.

The Yankees regained first place in the American League by trimming the Senators 7-1, the Indians scored 4-2 and 8-3 victories over the Orioles, the Angels swept the White Sox 2-0 and 3-2, the Red Sox defeated the Tigers 7-5, and the A's nipped the Twins 5-4.

ESKES OUT WALKER

EDMONTON (CP)—Two more players, ex-Argo import end Aubrey Linne, and comeback guard Art Walker, have been cut from the Edmonton Eskimo's 1964 player roster, a club spokesman said today.

Storm Clouds Pass Over Sitting Lions

Skrien Settles For Better Deal

VANCOUVER (CP)—The game of musical chairs, which left wives of the British Columbia Lions out in the wet and caused head coach Dave Skrien to threaten to quit, has ended amicably.

The women will get seats equal to or better than those they occupied in Empire Stadium last season.

Skrien touched off headlines when he accused general manager Herb Capozzi of "a deliberate attempt to undermine me" by moving the wives of players and assistant coaches from free seats in prime, covered positions to uncovered seats ranging from the end zone to the 20-yard line.

"I can't coach if I am undermined and I can only view this as a deliberate attempt by the general manager to undermine me. It may seem a small thing, tickets, but team harmony is being threatened and my authority is being challenged."

'Would Kill Me'

"If I let this go, I am dead as a coach. This will kill me in the eyes of my football players."

Clayton B. Delbridge, club president, said the incident resulted from a misunderstanding.

The wives' seats, previously scattered through several sections of the cavernous stadium, had been consolidated into one section, he said.

In view of the uproar, however, he would see to it that the wives were given seats equal to or better than those occupied last year.

Delbridge said he hadn't known until Saturday, when informed by Skrien, that the seats had been switched.

'Can't Understand'

"It was news to me. I was at a loss to understand why they were moved after we had won the Western Conference. I can't understand why the players would get seats that were not as good as those they had last year."

"If I had moved them this year I would have moved them to better seats in appreciation of what their husbands did."

Skrien, who he said would hand his resignation to the board of governors at the club's annual meeting Tuesday night unless the situation was rectified, said he was satisfied.

Earlier, he said that after the 3-0 defeat by Hamilton Tiger-Cats in an exhibition game Monday night the players were more concerned with the ticket situation than the game they had just lost.

Capozzi said he had no comment.

LARK FANS

'Play Up If You Want Us'

MONTREAL (CP)—Will the real Montreal Alouettes please stand up?

That's been the plea of Montreal's unworried football fans this last week. Dismayed by last Tuesday's 35-7 collapse against Calgary in a Canadian Football League exhibition, the grandstand quarterbacks started to demand major league football for major league ticket prices.

Coach Jim Trimble apparently has yielded to pressure and plans to start his first stringers tonight against Saskatchewan Roughriders in the team's second pre-season game. But Trimble remains convinced exhibition games are just trial runs.

"The fans in Canada are going to have to understand that our fight with the NFL and AFL people for players is dead serious," he said Tuesday.

"Financially, it is simply impossible to keep pace with those leagues for the top players. AFL players are offered $15,000 to $20,000 a season. The NFL is considerably higher."

Wicklum Gets Knife, Fernandez Gets Axe

EDMONTON (CP)—Sam Fernandez, a 205-pound fullback and linebacker acquired from Toronto Argonauts last season, has been placed on waivers, the Edmonton Eskimo Football Club announced.

The Western Football Conference Eskimos also announced that halfback Mike Wicklum will be out of action for three weeks following an appendix operation.

DIGNITY EXCHANGED FOR 'RAGS'

"They were bought not for presents but for speculation (a serious crime in the Soviet Union). There was only one sportsman who did not exchange his dignity for the foreign rags."

Komsomolskaya Pravda said.

The team, according to the newspaper, has been "disbanded" for losing the honor of Soviet sportsman.

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Fedoruk

Too often, promoters and dreamers step forward with grandiose plans for some lavish project. More often than not, these grand productions wind up as grand busts.

Andy McGregor offers a refreshing change of pace. Andy is the carpenter-turned-golf-club-owner who offers one and all the Gregarah Golf Club.

Andy's Prospect Lake course is getting good play these days, and you have to admire an honest man's honest toll. Quietly and without fanfare, McGregor set out to build a golf course about five years ago. There was a great deal of hard work and also plenty of heartbreak.

Reward, in part, came early this spring. Long before McGregor was prepared to declare his course "open," it was being visited regularly by numerous golfers and would-be golfers.

By the time he declared it open, several weeks ago, Gregarah Golf Club boasted a membership of about 30 golfers. More admirable than McGregor's hours of toil is the approach to what Gregarah should or should not be.

Gregarah, literally translated, means "Home of the McGregors."

McGregor would like it to be a "husband-and-wife" course. The nine-hole course is laid out, professionally, over 45 acres. There is additional acreage to eventually turn it into an 18-hole course.

It is no plush country club, and Andy is the first to emphasize the fact that the course is for the average guys and gals.

It is challenging and well-tended, and McGregor hopes, capable of "relieving some of the terrific pressure being put on Victoria's other clubs."

McGregor thinks his 2,470-yard, par-33 course is ideally suited for tyros and novices.

War On Eels Leads To Trout Bonanza

DANNY STOPS DANNY, YUP—

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Two featherweights, each named Danny Valdez and each jealous of the other, battled for 10 rounds Tuesday night in what was billed as a climax to their feud.

The result: Danny Valdez, 125, of Los Angeles was awarded a unanimous decision over Danny Valdez, 123½, of Mexico City.

Aussies Defend Tag-Team Crown

There's an international tinge to a Canadian tag-team wrestling "championship" at Memorial Arena Saturday.

Australians Roy Heffernan and Al Costello will defend the "Canadian" championship against Don Leo Jonathan and Roy McClarty, a pair of brawny boys from the U.S.

That highlights the weekly professional card which also will include bouts involving Jerry Christy, Bobby Christy, Paul Diamond, Buddy Austin, Roy Collins and Gorilla Marconi.

Action starts at 8:15.

LONDON, Ont. (CP)—Trout in Lake Superior are making a comeback—thanks to an international war on the predatory lamprey eel.

Commercial and private fishermen alike are reaping the benefits of a long campaign waged by Canadian and United States agencies under the direction of the Great Lakes Fisheries Commission.

The concerted attack on the lamprey started in 1956. It now has reached the stage of a "mopping-up operation," to use the words of A. H. Lawrie, assistant director of the fisheries research board here.

He said this week that by 1962 poisoning of young lamprey in their spawning streams had cut their numbers down by 75 per cent. This gain has been maintained.

The trout population, responding with an increase in their survival rate, now presented an encouraging picture. Extensive restocking is being continued from hatcheries in Canada and the United States. This year 2,311,000 fingerlings have been planted in Lake Superior.

With officials still hoping for better results, fishermen are rejoicing in what they regard as "wonderful" catches after so many bad years.

the Garibaldi Development Association said they were embarking on the new campaign with confidence.

"It's probably quite truthful to say Banff has a 55 per cent edge—in other words, we have a 45 per cent chance—but we feel our chances will grow stronger every day with a vigorous campaign," spokesman David Mathews told a press conference.

The Canadian Olympic Association, which backed Banff's ill-fated bid for the 1968 Winter Olympics, has since said it will consider both Banff and Garibaldi as possible 1972 sites, Mr. Mathews said.

A decision by the COA may be made at a Montreal meeting Sept. 12.

OFFICIAL BACKING

Backing the Garibaldi bid officially are the provincial government and the Canadian Amateur Ski Association's western division, which covers skiers in British Columbia and the Yukon.

Garibaldi proponents said their chances of getting the Winter Olympics in competition with Banff have improved since the bidding for the 1968 games by construction of a $3,000,000 access road by the provincial government.

The park is now largely a wilderness area, although some skiing is being done.

A gondola tramway and a T-bar tow to carry skiers to skiing areas will be built by next year in a further effort to improve Garibaldi's bid.

PLAN BUILDING

The Garibaldi bid is based on building ski runs, a bobsled run, a hockey rink and other Olympic facilities as well as an Olympic village on privately owned land at Whistler Mountain near Alta Lake, 72 miles north of here.

These would not be built unless Garibaldi received assurances of getting the 1972 games.

"It should be noted that Banff has already lost the International bid twice, and possibly a new area with better facilities would stand a much greater chance of being selected at the international level," said Mr. Mathews.

Case Swaps Barbs With Jim Piersall

CINCINNATI (AP)—Casey Stengel didn't want to listen to any criticism, especially from Jim Piersall.

"I don't wanna hear what he said," the New York Mets' manager declared Tuesday night.

"I'm feeling too good now," Stengel added. The Mets had just beaten the Reds 4-2.

Piersall said Tuesday he believes Stengel is past his prime in "teaching tall players how to play." Stengel in turn criticized Piersall's fielding.

"I just know he can't catch fly balls," Stengel said.

Piersall formerly played under the veteran manager, but is now with Los Angeles Angels, where he is hitting .354 in 48 games.

Piersall made his statements in an interview. The solution for the Mets' problems, he said, is "they should disband."

"The Mets probably could do better if they had someone else to manage them, Casey Stengel was a great manager. Now he is in charge of putting people in the ball park, which he does very well," Piersall said.

Moody's Flock Stops Leaders

"... And the shepherd shall lead his flock."

Manager Jim Moody led and his flock of Independents followed Tuesday at Royal Athletic Park. The result: a 4-1 victory over Transports in a Senior Amateur Baseball League game.

Victory hoisted the winners to within 2½ games of the leading Transports.

Moody whacked two hits, drove in a run and scored two as Independents bunched their blows and runs.

John Balloch scored the first run for Independents on a walk, passed ball, Moody's first single, and a perfect squeeze bunt by Bob Holness.

Moody went to third on the play, romped home when the throw was wild. They added two more in the third. Transports' lone marker came in the fourth when Barry Harvey's triple scored Gary Bishop.

Uplands Pairing Tops Two-Ball Tournament

Edna Hicks and Jean Christie, an Uplands pairing, Tuesday captured top honors in the Victoria district women's two-ball tournament.

They did it by defeating Gorge Vale's Irene Wood and Mary Wakelin on the second extra hole of a scheduled 18-hole final at Victoria Golf Club.

The tournament, perhaps the most popular of all district women's events, started July 7. Ann Dye and Irene Horne, a Gorge Vale combination, captured consolation honors by defeating Elsie Radford and Edythe McCormick, one up.

Esquimalt Places Bid For Finals

The Minto Cup, prize bauble in junior Canadian lacrosse, may be fought for in a new venue this year—the Esquimalt Sports Centre.

Esquimalt came into the picture when Victoria Maple Leafs of the Western Hockey League moved onto the local horizon a few weeks ago.

The Leafs will open training at Memorial Arena Sept. 15, the day after the junior boxa finals were scheduled to begin "at the home of the western winner."

This could mean the locale of Victoria Shamrocks, Minto winners in 1962 and finalists last year, the Rocks already have a berth in the B.C. final and could be back for another championship try.

Esquimalt already has ice in, but manager Joe Iannarelli is ready to negotiate.

"If a deal can be worked out," Iannarelli said Tuesday, "I would take it out for two weeks."

Teacher Triples Salary

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (CP)—Herman Willemse just about triples his annual salary teaching school in Holland by winning the annual Atlantic City swim marathons with monotonous regularity.

The 30-year-old teacher from Utrecht, The Netherlands, where he earns the equivalent of $1,400 yearly in wages, made his annual trip to this famed resort city in southern New Jersey Tuesday and left with $3,000—the fifth year in a row that he has picked up that sum for winning the gruelling 26-mile swim.

CRACKS RECORD

Maj. Abdel Latif Abou-Heif of Egypt won second place by just the flick of a wrist over Montreal's John LaCourse. Abou-Heif got $2,000 for second place and LaCourse received $1,000 third-place money.

Willemse's time of 10 hours, eight minutes and 15 seconds in this 11th marathon topped by 22½ minutes the record he himself set in winning his first swim here in 1960.

Abou-Heif, who also finished second last year, was timed at 10:31:23 and LaCourse at 10:31:23.1.

Nicklaus has played in 17 tournaments, won three and placed in the first five money positions 11 times.

Tony Lema ranks third on this week's list with $66,778, Bill Casper Jr., fourth with $59,096, and Gary Player fifth with $50,369.

Others in the top 10 were Mason Rudolph, $38,837; Mike Souchak, $36,920; Ken Venturi, $35,446; Juan Rodriguez, $33,116, and Tommy Jacobs, $33,816.

ALLIE SAYS NIX ... TO PART-TIME HELP

'It's All or Nothing ...'

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Don Chandler, kicking specialist for New York Giants, will return to the National Football League team this year—as a part-time player.

Chandler made his decision after Giant coach Allie Sherman had rejected a proposal for part-time play.

Chandler, a place-kicking and punting specialist, wanted to show up a couple of days before each game. "But Sherman turned this down."

Confronted with that statement, Chandler said he would report "in a few days" to the Giants to begin his ninth professional season. Asked if he got the terms he wanted, he replied, "no, but then I never do."

The 28-year-old booter, who has lucrative business and insurance interests, told Sherman earlier he would like to play another season, but only as a part-time player. He said he feared spending more time with the Giants would jeopardize his outside income.

"Maybe it was OK in the past," Sherman said, "but the game has grown to where no one can do their best with a part-time effort. You're either a full-time professional football player, or you're something else."

Chandler, who led the NFL in scoring last season with 106 points on 18 field goals and 52 extra points, has been the Giants' bread-and-butter punter for eight years. His long, spiraling boots played an important factor in the Giants' great defence.

WIFE ACCUSED OF MURDER WITH AUTO

PORTLAND (AP)—A tavern owner was accused Tuesday of killing her husband of five months by running him down on the sidewalk with her car after an early-morning quarrel.

Mrs. Wallace H. Dayton, 40, was charged with first-degree murder after the death of her 28-year-old husband, co-owner of their tavern.

Police said witnesses told them the couple had a violent quarrel prior to closing time.

"PRETEND YOU DON'T SEE HIM, FRANCINE," suggests Huguette Crete, right, of Montreal, as Vancouverite Tom Tupper attempts to join the conversation. Huguette, Tom and Francine Arbour of Shawinigan, Quebec, are participating in a student exchange program which has produced some interesting observations on the differences between French-speaking and English-speaking teen-agers.

Biculturalism a Race to Girls —Which Boys are the Fastest?

By JIM BIGSBY

"You know what I don't like about boys in Vancouver? White sox. I hate that."

"White sox, running shoes and jeans."

"It looks young, you know?"

"And the boy who carries all the time a black umbrella!"

Lucie Archambault returned to her fried chicken for a moment before continuing.

PERT MA'ISELLE

A pert, charming little Montrealer, she was exactly what every English-speaking young man thinks of when he thinks of a French-speaking girl.

Lucie is one of 13 Quebec students staying with Victoria and Vancouver students as part of an exchange co-sponsored by the National Centennial Committee and the Canadian Council of Christians and Jews.

She had been asked if there were any differences between French-Canadian and English-Canadian youth.

"The girls are the same in Vancouver as in Montreal except the girls here go out with boys their own age."

"In Quebec this is not so."

"Me, I am 16 and I go out with a boy 21."

Barbara Marsh of Vancouver, who along with the other B.C. students had spent two weeks in Quebec prior to returning here with their hosts, also had some comparisons to make.

"French-Canadian boys are more chivalrous."

"They learn earlier to be well-mannered because they go out earlier."

"Girls in Montreal wear their hair straight or else put it up, not ratty like this."

She gestured towards her own hair, a victim of wind as they had travelled across the straits.

"And they dance nicely in Quebec, too."

"They just live. No wiggle."

What about separatism?

"I didn't meet one separatist in two weeks there," said Barbara.

"Only one boy who thought he was."

"They (people in Quebec) think people in Ontario hate them. Not us on the west coast, just Ontario people."

"We have a lot of separatists in university," said Lucie. She had finished her chicken.

"There are 10 of the 40 in our class. I would say 25 per cent of students in Quebec."

IT'S A RACE

But lunch was over and the teenagers headed toward their tour bus, the conversation now back to comparisons.

"The difference between French-speaking and English-speaking boys is that the boys in Ontario are much faster," one Quebec girl said.

"The English faster? You're kidding!" cried a Vancouver girl.

And the two climbed on the bus, still arguing.

Road Aid Studied

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Pearson said Monday the government has received a request from British Columbia for participation in extension of the Trans-Canada Highway from Nanaimo to Port Hardy on Vancouver Island and still has it under consideration. He was replying in to the Commons to Tom Barnett (NDP—Comox-Alberni).

Papers Deny Use Of Career Scabs

TORONTO (CP)—Senior executives of the three Toronto daily newspapers sent telegrams to Prime Minister Pearson Tuesday denying they have used professional strike-breakers in their dispute with their printers.

Earlier in the day Mr. Pearson told Stanley Knowles NDP—Winnipeg—North Centre in the Commons that he would be glad to look into a report that some professional strike-breakers from the United States have worsened the strike situation on the three papers.

The denials were sent by John Bassett, publisher of the The Telegram, Joseph S. Atkinson, publisher of The Star, and James L. Cooper, vice-president and editor-in-chief of The Globe and Mail. Copies of the telegram were sent to Mr. Knowles.

Members of the International Typographical Union, C.L.C., walked off the job July 9, claiming they had been locked out when the papers implemented new work rules that had been agreed upon during previous negotiations.

At that time the representatives of the 680 printers still were disputing the matter of supervision of multi-purpose computers which the newspapers plan to install.

Some progress was said to have been reached Tuesday as representatives of both the union and the newspaper management continued negotiations under the supervision of Louis Fine, chief Ontario labor department conciliator.

Cold Water Poured on Lake Scheme

Victoria parks committee today poured cold water on a proposed warm water bathing development for young children and non-swimmers.

Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen Club asked the committee to look at plans it has for improvements to city-owned Thetis Lake Park, including a concrete-walled pool enclosing a shallows immediately fronting the change house area.

The idea was discouraged because of the proximity of deep, dangerous water where

Committee members Ald. M. H. Mooney, A. W. Toone, Cecil Parrott and Geoffrey Edgelow, with city manager Dennis Young, parks administrator Herb Warren and a Kinsmen delegation led by Thetis committee chairman Sandy Grant, toured the site.

The club offers to build a $6,000 concrete block concession, and erect new signs in the park; to clean up deadfalls and encourage more parking space, a kiddies' play area and general beautification of the popular summer spa.

Committee members felt priority should be given to parking and the new buildings, concurring with the need meanwhile for some new signs and improvement in the area adjoining the change house, where it is proposed to dump sand donated by Evans, Coleman Ltd.

CITY HAS PLANS

The city has its own plans for a new change house.

Mr. Young suggested an architect should be engaged to prepare proper plans for the committee to consider before it is decided which building to start with.

Ald. Edgelow urged the club to "forget about the kiddies' bathing area."

"This is not a small child's lake," he said. "Let them be here, but don't encourage them."

Mr. Young added that what the Kinsmen propose for a beach enclosure would be very expensive, costing perhaps $30,000.

FOUR-FOOT WALK

The wall would run about 20 feet from the shore and have a four-foot walk along it to help with supervision of children, the club suggests. This water would be between two and three feet deep.

"It's no do-it-yourself project," Mr. Young commented when Mr. Grant proposed: "We're going to do a lot of the work, not just give the city the money for it."

"If you're thinking this is a baby's place to play, forget it," Ald. Edgelow said. "You're going to have youngsters going out to the edge there and drown."

SUDDEN SLOPE

The beach slopes off suddenly, making water 20 feet deep within a dozen yards of the shore.

Mr. Young suggested that the lake's "second beach," around a point from the change house, might better be developed for youngsters.

Mr. Warren agreed that this would take the "little tots" away from the swimmer's area, but it was pointed out that a second lifeguard would then have to be hired.

Semi-Metro Election Meets Set

Public meetings in the outlying areas of Greater Victoria next week will assist in getting nominees to plan B.C.'s first joint services board.

The board — proposed by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell — would consist of municipal and unorganized area representatives embracing Greater Victoria, Colwood, View Royal, Langford, Sooke, Metcalfe and North Saanich.

Representatives at large from the six latter areas will be elected from nominees whose names are entered by Aug. 3 deadline. They will assist the municipal delegates and representatives of the municipal affairs department in framing legislation for the joint services board.

The public meetings will lead off with one in View Royal Monday night. Others are posted in the areas concerned.

Elections Aug. 15 will be on the basis of school voters' lists and returning officers have been appointed. New names may be added to the list by affidavit.

Candidates for the joint board must be British subjects and landowners over 21.

The group will hold private discussions to frame proposed legislation.

OLD FARM MACHINERY

2 Museums Eye Saanich 'Junk'

By HUMPHRY DAVY

Two B.C. museums are interested in acquiring museum pieces of farm machinery which the Saanich Pioneer Society owns and is showing little interest in preserving.

The collection, in need of repairs and some protection, is kept in the open on the East Saanich Road farm of Willard Michell.

Mr. Michell resigned as president of the Saanich Pioneer Society Monday when members refused to back up plans for expanding the pioneer museum at the Saanichton Fair Grounds and to do something to house the farm machinery.

The plans called for the construction of a fireproof building for household relics exhibited in the Saanichton log cabin and a shelter for the machinery now at his farm.

Some members called the machinery junk.

But George Evans of Duncan, a director of the Cowichan Forest Museum, doesn't think so.

He said the proposal had been suggested to Central Saanich as a centennial project.

"But when I saw the members were backing down, I had no other alternative but to resign," he said.

He felt certain the society could have acquired new property for the museum and backing from the various municipalities, but the membership was reluctant to move in this direction.

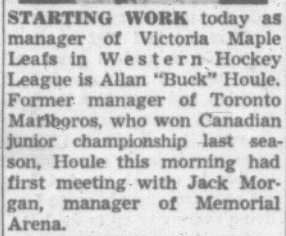

"This is the time to expand," he said. "Federal and provincial grants are available for such a project. No institution can stand still, it must move forward."

Hit-Run Driver Fined $175, Loses Licence

A hit-and-run driver who knocked down a pedestrian on Goldstream Avenue, near Royal Colwood Golf Club, last Thursday was fined a total of $175 Tuesday.

Reginald Antrobus, 3580 Sooke Road, pleaded guilty to failing to remain at the scene of an accident and to careless driving. Antrobus also lost his licence for three months. Colwood RCMP traced him by 6 o'clock on the morning after the accident.

The pedestrian, William Razzo, 18, of 642 Mt. View, was taken to hospital with head cuts and bruises.

Arthur Mayse

Charlie White is a great guy, and his Undersea Gardens a boon to both visitors and Victorians, but his bid for Clara the chirping killer whale as an addition to his sub-aquatic circus does raise a point or two which could stand weighing.

Clara herself—at least I think she's a her—seems to be a pretty decent kid, as young killers go, and once Mr. White has tempted her appetite back with a couple of scuba divers, I don't see why she shouldn't be reasonably content in her projected Oak Bay pen.

What I find myself wondering, though, is what's going to happen when the novelty of stardom wears off, and nature asserts itself, and she decides to chirp up a few of the boys.

The wild bunch, as I can all too easily visualize it, intercepts that first plaintive chirp while cruising in formation off Discovery Island light.

"Calling all killer whales," comes the message, faint but distinct. "It's me, Clara! I'm all alone and very lonely."

"Hussy!" That's Alice, the white killer who on occasion has attracted a deal of attention in our South Island waters. "Ignore her, Orville. I knew she'd come to a bad end... I tried to warn her..."

Orville, the big bull orca, humps his five-foot spike of a dorsal fin through the surface. "Yeah, yeah," he growls in a bass chirp. "You told me that already. But look, the girl's lonely, maybe she's in trouble. I'm going in for a look."

He reverses course and cruises at half speed toward Oak Bay. "Hey," he chirps. "It's been a long time, kid. Not since that night off Pender... How they treating you in there, honey?"

"Oh, well enough, I suppose." It comes in a soft little sigh. "But you know how I am about people. It's terrible, Orville. They come and stare at me. All day, all night. They just stand and stare. Then there's this man from the museum, quite nice and I'm glad to help science, really. One he gets so... so familiar at times..."

Orville, who is now inshore

of Discovery Island, snorts vapor.

"He does, huh? Well, we don't have to stand for anything like that." He tosses his 11 tons and 22 feet clear of the water, crashes back with an impact that stuns several coho salmon, and pours on the coal.

"Give me a bearing, Clara baby," he chirps through gritted ivory choppers. "I'm coming in!"

Alice, meanwhile, has been tagging anxiously after.

"No, Orville," she pleads. "She brought it on herself, she's simply not worth it. Think of science. Look at all those little boats in the way!"

"You don't have to come," Orville chirps over a massive shoulder. "Matter of fact, why don't you get lost? G'wan up to Ladysmith, and give the natives a thrill!"

He is now ripping past Chain Island at flank speed.

"Hell with science!" he chirps, and cracks his throttle wide.

Directly on course, a 12-foot-six white plywood boat is podding to the push of a beat-up little 3-horse outboard.

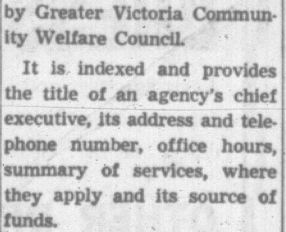

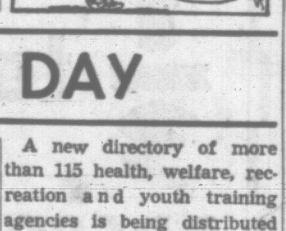

The boat is kind of scruffy too, and the man draped languidly in the sternsheets wouldn't pass muster at anybody's garden party. He is wearing cuffed-down rubber boots—he's careful about that—and he ought to be home edging the lawn.

He's happy, though, catching no fish but at peace with the world...

Or is, until he looks up to see that tall black dorsal driving in behind a low wave from 40 feet away.

Do I make my point? I'm all for science, and I think Clara the killer would fetch us paying guests from far and wide.

But we don't much like her boy-friends, and if you get her, Charlie, I hope you'll take care of that come-hither chirp!

10,000 IN U.S. WILL TRY SHORTCUT THROUGH GLASS PANELS

New Epidemic Threatens—Walking Through Doors

Wider use of plate glass doors in Victoria calls for safety precautions, hospital officials and glass distributors warned today.

The installations have caused a wave of injuries in the United States from people walking through the doors while they are closed. So far there have been few similar accidents in B.C.

But in the last year floor-to-ceiling glass has gained tremendous popularity and is going into nearly every new home and high-rise apartment, says Gerry Hennen, manager of Pittsburgh Glass in Victoria.

This will cause an increased number of accidents unless safety precautions are followed, he said.

Thick, unbreakable glass, or marks made with paint or decals at eye level are the best safeguards, he advised.

Hospital officials warned that the injuries suffered by some one walking through plate glass are usually "very severe."

According to the American Medical Association, next year

probably 10,000 persons will try to walk through a glass door, partition or picture window which they did not realize was there.

Some 6,000 of them will wind up in hospital with severe cuts. A few will bleed to death before a physician can get to them.

So far this year Victoria hospital have treated several minor facial injuries when people bumped into but did not break plate glass. A door at a local hospital had to be painted after several collisions. It didn't break.

The last serious accident here occurred one year ago when a student walked through sheet glass in a high school.

'Defiance, Contempt' Bring 6-Months Term

A man told Monday that he was still disqualified from driving, went out Tuesday, got drunk and drove his car.

James Erickson, 2218 Sayward, was caught when his car collided with two vehicles parked on the road up to the Lookout on Beacon Hill Park Tuesday night.

He was sent to jail this morning for six months for drunk driving and driving while disqualified. Magistrate William Oster said his behavior showed "defiance and contempt" for the law.

Erickson was so drunk he had to be supported by police to keep from falling. He registered the high reading of .33 per cent blood alcohol when tested on a breathalyzer at the police station.

Erickson in the past has been twice convicted of driving while impaired and once of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

It was these infractions, in addition to traffic violations, that resulted in his being disqualified from driving several years ago. On Monday the motor vehicle branch informed him his disqualification would continue until he obtained adequate insurance coverage.

In city court today Erickson told the magistrate he would "appreciate" leniency in his sentence.

But Magistrate Oster said Erickson had shown only the

"grossest type of contempt" for law by his behavior.

The magistrate told him, "Your reaction [to the continued disqualification] was to go out, get drunk and drive a car."

Magistrate Oster also prohibited Erickson from driving anywhere in Canada for three years. The magistrate added that if it were possible for him to have made the prohibition longer he would have done so.

Ask The Times

Q. Will you kindly explain the difference between a murder charge and a non-capital murder charge?—K.F.S.

A. Capital and non-capital murder are two degrees of murder. A person or persons are charged depending on the circumstances surrounding the slaying.

If the murder is pre-meditated, it is capital murder. If liquor or provocation was involved in the killing, the charge would be reduced to non-capital murder.

A capital murder conviction results in the death penalty and a non-capital murder conviction would result in a prison sentence or commitment to a mental institution.

Q. If a submarine travels at a speed of 15 knots at a 100-foot depth, at what speed would it travel at a 1,000-foot depth, assuming the same driving force?—J.P.T.

A. Its speed would decrease about one-hundredth of a knot according to calculations based on the compressibility of the water and the drag of the sub.

DEAR ABBY...

No Chance for Change!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband's "baby" sister (some baby, she is 44!) is getting married again for the fourth time. She lost one husband in war and two in the divorce court. She is planning a big church wedding. Her excuse is that Calvin (her fiancé) has never been married before and HE deserves a lovely wedding. The truth of the matter is that all of hers were hurry-up affairs.

SISTER-IN-LAW DEAR SIS: If she doesn't listen to anybody, she is not about to listen to me. Stop wasting your energy. She is three times seven (doubled!) and doesn't want your advice or mine.

DEAR ABBY: Please don't think I'm crazy, but you are the only person I can ask. Is overweight hereditary? I am going with a girl who is a little on the heavy side. Her mother is so fat she has to go through the door sideways. And her grandmother is so enormous she has to be helped up out of chairs. I like this girl very much, Abby, and the thought of marriage has crossed my mind, but if she is going to turn out like her mother and grandmother, I don't know how happy I would be with her later on. What do you think?

SECOND THOUGHTS DEAR SECOND: "Overweight" is not hereditary. But the tendency toward obesity is. Perhaps a thyroid deficiency or disorder runs in your girl's family. If you are considering marriage, you have a right to ask.

DEAR ABBY: I am a single woman keeping company with a man who is separated from his wife, but not divorced. He has three children to support so he never has any money. He seldom takes me out, but he goes into a rage if I accept an invitation to go out with someone else. Don't you think he is a selfish person to take that attitude? I enjoy going places, but never make plans that will interfere with our date nights. I see no marriage in our future and, therefore, don't see why I should give up all my friends. Am I wrong?

CONFUSED DEAR CONFUSED: You are not wrong. The man is selfish, but you are foolish to continue seeing him, feeling the way you do. Lose him.

CONFIDENTIAL TO LAURA AND TEX: Your boy friend should use the rocks in his head to fill in the holes in yours! Phony names and phony ages would only make for a phony marriage.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Here's the Place to Shop If You're a Mother-to-Be

By PENNY SAVER

Girls! If you're on the lists of "ladies in waiting," I'd like to tell you about the bargains in maternity wear that I found this morning.

All this shop's summer stock—including tops, two-piece outfits, skirts and slims—are being reduced to make room for fall fashions.

Cotton outfits and two-piece slim jim sets are marked down by 20 per cent. And, the remainder of the stock is reduced by 10 per cent.

An interesting fact to note about all these outfits is the comfortable stretch fabric front.

Styles include fine white corduroy skirt and jumper top sets. Tops are sleeveless and feature scooped necklines and lowered patch pockets.

One-piece cotton dresses that were regularly priced at $3.95 feature rounded necklines and tie belts. After the arrival of the wee one, dresses can be worn belted as shifts.

One outfit I loved was made of beige linen and styled with the new draped cowl neckline and buttons down the back.

Shop also specializes in completely washable flannel skirts and slims. These have been reduced to $6.95 and $7.95 and come in all sizes.

If you are in the market for maternity wear, call Penny at 382-3131. She'll gladly pass on the name of this shop to you.

SEW SIMPLE

KNIT NOTES:

"Some patterns call for making sweaters on circular needles and then cutting the sweater down the centre front to make a cardigan. This cutting makes me so nervous, I'm afraid I'll ruin all my work. Isn't there another way to knit this sweater?"

MRS. N. Q.

Dear Mrs. N. Q.: You may still use the circular needles. However, divide the number of stitches for the entire front in order to find the centre front. Knit back and forth from the centre front around to the other side seam (eliminating the side seams). This will save countless minutes counting rows to find out if they're even.

Your Sewing Glossary:

Stay: This is a separate piece of fabric cut to the exact size you should have when there is gathering or shirring. This not only serves as a guide, but will prevent the gathering from stretching.

BE SMART—

A new look for this summer (or the next or the next!): bright colored dresses... jewelry (necklace, bracelet, earrings) and shoes to match the dominant color of the dress... and gleaming black straw hat in a pretty shape, plus black patent handbag.

Behind the counter are two attractive girls, wearing smart blue uniforms, who can answer almost any question about Britain—and London in particular. Specially trained for the job, they speak several foreign languages fluently and are expert in planning sightseeing and shopping tours in London.

Robin's Egg Blue Necklace Carries Out Old Tradition

The old tradition of "something old, something borrowed, and something blue," was carried out by Catherine Vera Hatch when she exchanged vows recently with Elden Keith McKibben.

She wore her grandmother's robin's egg blue necklace, which met all three rules.

Her white straight-cut taffeta gown was highlighted with embroidered rosettes on the front panel. Slight bustle and train created back interest. A lace-edged veil and bouquet of white stephanotis and Tailsman roses with trailing ivy completed the bridal silhouette.

Dr. S. J. Parsons officiated at the ceremony in Centennial United Church. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Walter Hatch, 2539 Cook Street, and Mr. and Mrs. Henry M. Tenborg of Dawson Creek.

Tangerine and white carnations and Fiji chrysanthemums were used as decoration. Pewes were marked with Johanna Hill roses. Organist was Mrs. F. Wilmshurst, and the soloist Harry Elsdon.

Mrs. W. A. MacDonald was matron of honor; Mrs. W. E. Moxley the bridesmatron and the bridesmaids were the Misses Maureen and Barbara Hatch.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Enjoys His Life More Now That He Has Slowed Pace

Some letters from readers simply cry out for publication. The following are a few excerpts from a letter I received.

"Often in your column you have suggested that more health rather than more wealth might make us happier. Unblushingly I admit that I read your column although I am a man.

"I am a lawyer by profession and enjoy my work. However, I have slowed down at a fairly young age. I only take additional work if it interests me. I don't give a hoot whether my fees are large or small. I don't care what my rich clients think about me, but I do care about the client who has a just cause and little money. I am having a wonderful time and feel that I am doing a lot of good.

"One might think that I am starving. To the contrary I have enough, and live comfortably. Measured by worldly goods I am not a wealthy man, but I feel quite successful in my own mind and have a wonderful wife and two children. We have a fine home but nothing comparable to some of my friends.

"It is too bad that so many folks live in such a grim and tense way. I urge my friends to relax and they just laugh at me. They are so serious and indispensable. I do not know whether it is in the cards for me to live to an old age but I do not care too much because I am living every day up to the hilt."

Here is another peep into "Why Grow Old" mail. This letter is also from a man.

"Two years ago I weighed 216 pounds. My waistline measured 42 inches. I was short of breath and had round slumping shoulders. I didn't dare measure my chest. I am sure it was much smaller than my waist. I am in my 30s and am in public life. My weight embarrassed me. That, and your column, prodded me on to success.

"I didn't do anything drastic.

I cut out all pastries and desserts and rich items, ate a well-balanced diet but took smaller servings and no seconds. I also sent for your waist and abdominal slimming exercises.

"You should see me now! I weigh 155 pounds and my waist measures 28 inches. It seems to me that what's good for the women is also good for the men."

If any of my feminine readers have a tubby hubby, and would like to give him a gentle push, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for my "Tubby Hubby Diet." Address Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

BETWEEN OURSELVES

Union Jack Flies High In the Tenth Province

By Elizabeth Forbes

Not many weeks ago, as the new ferry, Queen of Nanaimo, sailed into Victoria's Inner Harbor, at the end of her inaugural run, Premier Bennett made the statement that British Columbia

The name of that province is Newfoundland. When I was there recently, I saw more Union Jacks per city block than I've seen waving, even on special occasions, in British Columbia.

And, in discussing Canada's present flag question with people of Newfoundland, I discovered that men and women of all ages are perfectly willing to accept maple leaf or Red Ensign, as long as they can continue to fly the Jack as well.

This goes not only for the man or woman on the street but for Premier Joseph Smallwood, too. When I talked to him, in a brief interview at his country home not far from St. John's, he spoke without censure or commendation as far as a new Canadian flag was concerned.

I am well aware that Premier Bennett is credited with being able to see into the future and to foretell many events. But, in this instance, I think he is wrong. There is one other province that will fly the Union Jack as long—if not longer—than British Columbia.

What he did say was that Newfoundland would accept the flag chosen as long as the Jack could still wave over Canada's newest province. Behind him, from a flagpole in front of his home, the Union Jack fluttered in the breeze.

Relations Are Many in Newfoundland

How did I rate a talk with Premier "Joey," as he is called by everyone in the province? And, on a Sunday, the day he reserves for himself, with no visitors allowed?

Only through the fact that Newfoundland families claim relationships in many ways. They call each other by their first names down to the fourth and fifth generation. If they are not related, most of them can boast of growing up across the street from each other or of attending school together.

That particular Sunday, I was driving with a friend, Gladys Roberts, who was a distant relative of Clara Smallwood, the premier's wife. They had gone to school together. Grown up together, too.

At the same time, neither the Premier nor the people have put aside their ancient pride in Newfoundland, once known as the Fortress Isle. They will—as they say—accept maple leaf or Red Ensign. But don't try to take the Union Jack away from them.

As far as Gladys Roberts was concerned, this was a firm invitation, Sunday or no Sunday.

Immediately after the announcement, a Government House spokesman said Gen. and Mme. Vanier are to greet the Queen and Prince Philip when the royal aircraft lands at Summerside, P.E.I., on Oct. 5.

LUCKY DAY

So, we drove up the long curving driveway to the comfortable, low-roofed house, set far back on a hillside, away from the main highway.

Her motherly figure was enveloped in a plastic raincoat to shield her from the strong spray of the hose. Her greying hair was combed back—carelessly from her forehead. Her feet were in comfortable, low-heeled shoes.

It was obvious she was not expecting visitors. But she greeted us with all the friendliness for which Newfoundland folk are noted.

She wasn't sure her "Joey" would see a visitor—even from as far away as British Columbia. Nevertheless, she went in the house to find out.

THE PREMIER

The premier had just completed a speech he was to give the following day and, I judge, he was well pleased with the result.

Shaved, showered, and dressed in an immaculate sports jacket and grey trousers, he stepped out on the patio to meet us.

He is not tall. Nor is he sturdily built. His voice is low pitched and you can detect a touch of the Newfoundland sing-song in its tone.

But when he expresses an opinion, or makes a statement, he seems to take on stature and his voice has a ring in it that lets you know, he means what he says.

His smile, like his wife's, made us feel that we were friends in his home.

Premier Smallwood is well respected by the people of Newfoundland. He's "Joey" to all. They like him because he is one of them.

He has known the day when he was as poor as many of them.

Perhaps that is why he understands their problems so well. Why he believes that being a part of Canada helps all his people.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred McGill, 1156 May Street, announce the forthcoming marriage of their youngest daughter, Sally Gladys, to Mr. Joseph John Houston, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Houston, 1211 McKenzie Street. The wedding will take place on Saturday, August 8, at 3 p.m., in Fairfield United Church. Rev. A. Calder will officiate. (Gibson's Studio.)

For Handicapped—At recent meeting of Quila Nichol Auxiliary to Goodwill Enterprises for the Handicapped, held in the home of Mrs. H. L. Talbot, plans were finalized for a garden party to be held at the home of Mrs. E. F. W. Cox, 722 Victoria Avenue, on August 13 from 2 to 5 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Lowell B. Hodges and small daughter Leanne, 19 months, are visitors from Colorado Springs, Colo., where Mr. Hodges is an instructor in the International Typographical Union's new school for printing. They are staying with Mr. and Mrs.

Silver Blades Lead to Wedding Rings

Two former professional skaters with the Ice Capades, Marilyn Mae Braun, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Braun, 2183 Florence Street, and John Harry Bate, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Bate of Vancouver, were recently married in a double-ring ceremony in First United Church. Rev. Leighton C. Straight officiated.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Attendants were gowned alike in bell-skirted gowns of shocking pink peau de sole with brief jackets en tone. Short veils misted from toning pillbox headpieces of rose petals. Engraved sterling silver bracelets, gift of the bride, were their only jewelry and they carried pink azalea carnations.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Jim King, Salmon Arm, B.C., and the bridesmaids were Mrs. Dario Nonis, Vancouver; Mrs. Ron Jay and Mrs. Rod Skillings. Ken Brown, Vancouver, was best man. Guests were ushered to pews marked with carnations and heather by Bill Braun, Mike O'Gara and Dick Ainsworth, Vancouver.

Pink and white arrangements of larkspur, delphiniums, and carnations were used in decorations. Soloist was Mrs. Ray Cain.

A floor-length gown of soft organdy over rustling taffeta was worn by the bride. Brussels lace was overlaid on the bodice and organdy edged the three-quarter length sleeves of similar lace. A Watteau panel of the same lace, trimmed with organdy, was held with sweetheart bows at the shoulder.

Following the honeymoon on Vancouver Island and the west coast the couple will live in Vancouver.

At the same time, neither the Premier nor the people have put aside their ancient pride in Newfoundland, once known as the Fortress Isle.

They will—as they say—accept maple leaf or Red Ensign. But don't try to take the Union Jack away from them.

Vaniers to Greet Queen and Consort In September

OTTAWA (CP)—The Queen will get a personal welcome from Canada's first French-Canadian governor-general, Georges F. Vanier, when she arrives in the fall.

Gen. Vanier, 76, whose five-year appointment was to have expired in September, has been granted a one-year extension, Prime Minister Pearson announced in the Commons Tuesday.

Immediately after the announcement, a Government House spokesman said Gen. and Mme. Vanier are to greet the Queen and Prince Philip when the royal aircraft lands at Summerside, P.E.I., on Oct. 5.

The Queen is to officially open the new Fathers of Confederation Memorial Centre in Charlottetown the following day.

The governor-general and his wife now are spending their summer vacation at Tadoussac, Que., and will return to Ottawa in early September. Both were reported to be very happy about the extension.

Jazzmen to Make One Last Attempt

Longtime Victoria jazzman Donna Wright as featured Buddy Glover says one last stab at professional jazz will be made here Friday night.

Combining to form the group are Pete, on tenor sax and flute, Ray Derry on trumpet, Bob Keizer on bass, George Heller on drums, and Buddy on piano. Donna, now resident in Vancouver, is a former Victoria girl who has sung in clubs from here to Winnipeg (the Town and Country Club) in the windy city, specifically.

Professional jazz has been almost dead here since the Scene closed its doors some years ago.

"But there have been plenty of signs of interest lately, and I think we can get it going again," says Buddy.

"This is our last try. If people aren't interested in it this time, the heck with it."

The club will be open from 9:30 p.m. Friday to 1 a.m. Saturday. Donna's shows will be at 10 and midnight.

Foundation Makes Grant To 'Y' Fund

A gift of $5,000 toward the Y Building Fund has been received from the Kresge foundation of Detroit, Mich.

In announcing the donation, Hugh Stephen, general chairman of the building fund said, "This was a wonderful example of a great American foundation stretching out its hand with generosity and understanding to assist a community 3,000 miles away."

The canvas which is underway at present is still short $230,000 of its objective, $1,347,000.

Evidence Lacking

OTTAWA (CP)—Justice Minister Favreau said Tuesday that the RCMP so far has been unable to gather evidence legally admissible in court to link any individual or group of persons with publication or circulation of hate literature.

RADIO MAN SAYS:

Personal Ire Makes Ottawa House 'Odd'

By TERRY IZZARD

The House of Commons this year is a very odd place.

This was how veteran radio and newspaper reporter Sam Ross summed up the Ottawa situation on Tuesday.

Speaking to Victoria Kiwanis, he said MPs were no different to MPs 90 years ago.

But there was something peculiar this year that wouldn't let any two MPs get down to business without bringing in a personal issue.

BASIC INABILITY

Basing his comments on his own gallery experience this year, he said the main fault was a basic inability to ask a question or give an answer.

The year began with the cutting down of the morning question period to 30 minutes. This displeased many MPs.

Then there came the dispute over the Pearson film which led to more personal comments.

And then the flag . . . "which somebody suddenly decided to do something about."

STALLING MEASURE

Mr. Ross suggested this issue had been brought up as a stalling measure, though he did not say what for.

He also doubted the good of the commission for bilingualism.

Biting Bruin Chews Up Old Theory

COQUITLAM, B.C. (CP) — Mrs. Frank Links, 34, tried out the oft-heard theory that if you remain motionless a prowling bear will merely pass you by. It doesn't work.

The Coquitlam housewife told of trying to take a picture of the bear in Manning Park near Hope, 100 miles east of here.

"I didn't think it would harm me even when it started towards me. I remembered people saying you should stay motionless if a bear approached you, so I stayed where I was."

"I got an awful shock when the bear came right up to me and bit me on the leg."

Mrs. Links was released from hospital after treatment and returned to her home here, near Vancouver.

Tokyo Drying Up

TOKYO (AP) — Water levels in Tokyo's three reservoirs dropped Tuesday to a seven-day supply and Prime Minister Hayato Ikeda ordered cabinet ministers to an all-out effort to overcome the crisis.

RETIRE TV actor-producer Desi Arnaz is being sued for $36,750,000. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Young allege in their suit filed Tuesday in Indio, Calif., that Arnaz chased them around the Thunderbird Country Club, where they were employed as janitors, last Jan. 1. They charge assault, battery, slander and false imprisonment.

ROYAL CRASH UPS PRICES

HOLYPORT, England (UPI) — Henry Cooper, 37, the licenceless driver whose car collided with one carrying Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip, put his car up for sale today as a collector's item.

Cooper, who bought the car six months ago for $266 said he was asking $560 for it.

SOLUTION FRIDAY

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

By EARL WILSON
NEW YORK—One of the causes of divorce today in the upper brackets is a new disease called "decoratormania."

"I deny that I broke up a lot of Hollywood marriages," says the very chic designer Allan Kirk. "It was just a coincidence."

In his California world, people "do over" their garages and literally redecorate their outdoor powder rooms, which are becoming tires chic nowadays.

"Donald O'Connor's house we do over twice a year," he told me. "One year we felt a little bit gaudy and had everything purple and white. The O'Connors lived with that for six months. Then we did it over more conservatively—in zebra stripes."

Several of his customers did divorce after he'd re-decorated them, he admits. "O'Connor, the Mickey Roneys, Dan Daileys..."

"What do they usually differ on?" I asked Kirk.

"The price! To do any one over, costs about $30,000. Women will fight with you over the cost of a sofa but not about the over-all price. Men sometimes think $30,000 is too much."

"It seems very reasonable to me," I said.

"You see," nodded Kirk, "I live with the clients... I have dinner with them... I do the best I can to bring out their personalities."

THE MIDNIGHT EARL...

Connie Francis and Dick Karpis set the wedding date: Aug. 16, in N.J. ... Liz Taylor and Richard Burton will film part of "Sandpiper" in H'wood, their first trip there as Mr. and Mrs. ... Jill Haworth arrived in Hawaii for "Harm's Way"—her clothes went on to Tokyo. ... Luci Baines Johnson has six tickets for "King and I" at Lincoln Centre July 29. ... Sybil Burton's London escort is actor Emylin Williams' son Brock.

Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney will campaign for Tunney's son, a congressional candidate in S. California. ... Durrward Kirby's two sons will join him in summer stock. ... The male star of a B'way hit threatened to punch his co-star if she didn't stop giggling during their kissing scenes. (She stopped). ... Duo: Comic Al Bernie and Margaret Whiting at Damoh's. ... The Duke of Bedford, who opened his ancestral home to sightseers, will cause a bigger fuss—he wants to set up a pub there.

Part of the International Beauty Pageant will be really international—it'll be seen in Europe via Telstar. ... Yul Brynner bought into a Calif. vitamin company. ... Christine Keeler's secretly taking voice lessons in her London home, says she's had stage offers all over the world. ... Joan Fontaine will star in David Merrick's show, "The Severed Head," (now a London hit). ... Carroll Baker will make another movie with her "Mr. Moses" co-star, Robert Mitchum.

Mandy Rice-Davies (also of the Profumo case) threatens to sue the Turkish gov't for ordering her to end her Istanbul cafe job and leave the country; they declared her set "immoral" ...

TODAY'S BEST LAUGH: Vaughn Meader says the Republican convention voting had "all the suspense and thrill of a rerun of the 'Beverly Hillsbillies'."

WISH I'D SAID THAT: Everybody worries about the coin shortage—we need nickels for juke boxes, dollars for slot machines—and dimes for church collection plates.—Harold Coffin.

REMEMBERED QUOTE: "Conscience is that small, still voice that makes you feel still smaller."—Anon.

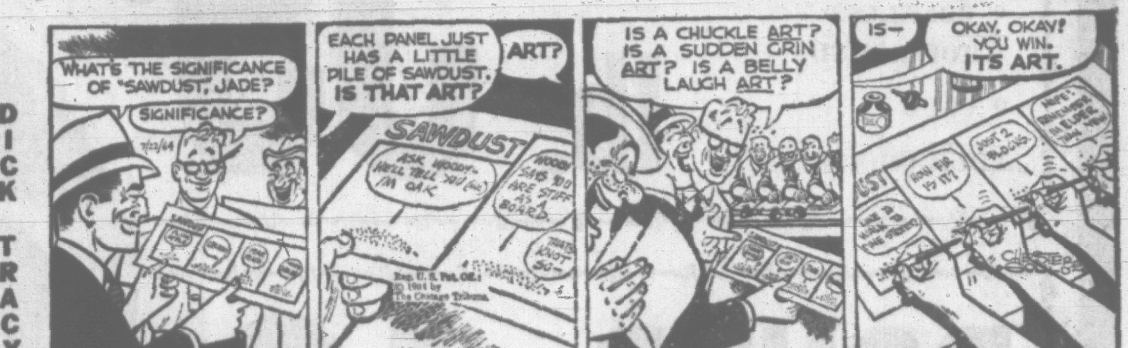

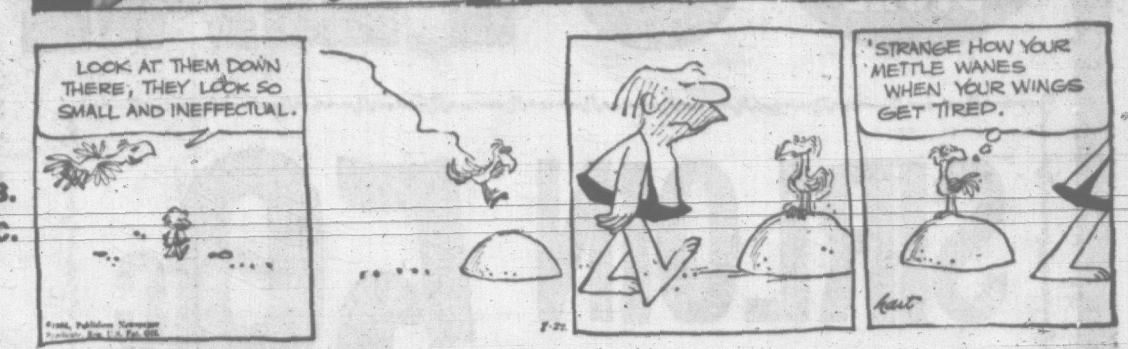

EARL'S PEARLS: Pete Pesci spotted a sign in a toupée shop: "We Cure Baldness."

Lionel Hampton made a quick name change in his latest song—he switched it from "Prancing With Seranton" to "Tarry With Barry." That's earl, brother.

Three Fast Smokes Could Impair Driver

TORONTO (CP)—The Ontario Medical Association in a pamphlet to physicians warns that three cigarettes chain-smoked could cause a driver to become impaired.

It says carbon monoxide in the blood resulting from the smoke reduces eye sensitivity.

A rule for drinking motorists is also offered in the booklet—no more than two drinks during the first hour, one drink each hour after that and none in the last hour before taking the wheel.

The association warns that if you drink more than that you could be impaired.

No one with an intelligence quotient under 70, says the association, should be allowed to drive.

The pamphlet adds: "High blood pressure is not an important factor, but side effects like heart, brain, eye or kidney damage could disqualify a person from being able to drive safely."

"Deafness is not a bar, but deaf people should have side mirrors on their cars to compensate for lack of ability to hear things behind them."

"Epileptics with no seizures in two years, may drive, but should avoid long-driving drives which could bring on an attack."

Merit Pay Lacks Merit Teachers Say

Rating teachers for merit pay is an unpopular idea with both Greater Victoria Teachers' Association and District 61 school trustees.

Both sides pour cold water on the concept of rating each school teacher according to some formula or pattern for purposes of rewarding the exceptional ones and downgrading the lacklustre ones.

Opinions were given after B.C. School Trustees' Association circulated a questionnaire on the subject to affiliated school boards in the province.

"It's a hot potato," said Greater Victoria chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson.

TRUSTEES TOO

A committee of the association is investigating, she explained, but local trustees gave no encouragement to the idea.

In Mrs. Thompson's opinion, no board is likely to touch merit-rating.

Len Hawkins, spokesman for Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said B.C. Teachers' Federation is opposed to merit pay. It has failed wherever tried, he said, and has been "banded about" in the U.S. for years.

It was brought in two or three years ago in one B.C. district and abandoned the following year, he said.

Merit-rating was found to cost more, for one thing, Mr. Hawkins said in this particular case the school board found many teachers were worth more than they were being paid, and few teachers were not working at peak or giving best value to their students.

NOT FAIR GAUGE

To stop the system, teachers in that district resigned en masse at the end of the school term.

"It is not a fair gauge at all," Mr. Hawkins said.

Teachers are governed by their material. Give a baker a poor dough mix and he'll produce a flat loaf. It works that way with the human mind.

"If a teacher hasn't got a good mind in his pupil he can't produce results. A teacher can spread himself very thinly, too, on a group of 40 children with 40 different minds."

And in certain subjects, the end result is not a fair indicator, either. "The greatest morons can produce high marks, given enough ulterior motive," he pointed out.

10 YEARS ON

"Merit as a teacher is measured by what kind of a person your student will be 10 years from now."

Teachers rate themselves. A teacher builds a reputation as he gradually gets known. Principals get to know teachers, too, but I wouldn't like to be paid on a principal's opinion of me at certain times, just as a reporter wouldn't like to be paid on the basis of an editor's opinion of him at times," Mr. Hawkins said.

The considerations in merit-rating are far-reaching and the machinery to operate the system can be cumbersome. It is found, the teacher spokesman said, that more inspectors, more supervisors and more teachers are needed.

"School boards are more interested in restricting teachers of low calibre than in rewarding those of high calibre."

"The school board here is far too wise to get into a merit-rating situation, where they would find they have little control," Mr. Hawkins said.

Saanich Police Get New Traffic Detail

A reorganization of Saanich police department announced Tuesday has abolished the existing juvenile branch and created a new traffic squad.

From now on juvenile matters will be handled by a youth detail division of the detective department. Juvenile Officer Harry Adams has been transferred to the detective department.

Detective Sergeant Robin Stewart, recently appointed head of the detective department, will be in command of juvenile work as well.

NANAIMO—An inquiry will be held by coroner Russ Inkster into the drowning Tuesday of a 12-year-old Ladysmith boy.

Barry Walt disappeared under the water at a campsite near Yellow Point, 12 miles south of here.

DOWN CHUTE

A good swimmer, he went down a chute into 15 feet of water and failed to come up.

It was several minutes before other swimmers realized he was missing.

Five of them dived under after him and found him near the muddy bottom at the third attempt.

REVIVAL FAILED

Mouth to mouth resuscitation was tried but he was already dead.

The accident occurred at 6:30 p.m., shortly after Barry finished his evening meal.

An autopsy was held this morning to determine cause of death. It is believed he probably suffered an attack of cramp.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Walt.

Signals Altered At Nanaimo

NANAIMO—The green light was given by city council Monday for alterations to several traffic control signals here.

Council approved the parking and traffic control committee's decision to keep traffic lights on the highway through Nanaimo in full operation until 2 a.m.

Previously they changed to flashing red and amber at midnight.

Mrs. Mary Gold died after being hit on a cross-walk at Terminal and Comox April 24, just minutes after the lights changed at midnight.

A coroner's jury recommended full operation of the lights but RCMP officials suggested the two-hour extension would be sufficient.

Nanaimo Sets Disaster Plan

NANAIMO—Mayor Pete Maffeo has signed a document laying down the basic plan of action if the city is ever hit by a natural or military disaster.

The plan, drawn up by civil defence co-ordinator Dawson Gordon, requires the signature of another council member and approval of the provincial government. It co-ordinates the work of all services, provides for orderly evacuation of the city and will be tested when approved.

several years has been the department's traffic specialist, has been promoted to sergeant and given the job of building up a traffic squad. Constable William Stephenson has also been assigned to this work.

Two more promotions were also announced by Chief W. A. Pearson. Constables Jack Stone and Norman Baker have been made detectives.

The promotion of an Oak Bay policeman to the rank of corporal was also announced today. Constable R. L. Lopeter, who has been 11 years on the force, will be the third corporal in the department.

WHILE RUNWAYS at Comox are being repaired RCAF pilots and navigators are operating from Paine Field, Wash. Here, wives of RCAF's Nighthawk All-Weather Fighter

ISLAND ROUNDUP

Residents Oppose Drive-In

COURTENAY—Residents' objections to a proposed drive-in as part of a $200,000 business complex could mean cancellation of the whole project.

This was hinted at when 22 residents forwarded a petition objecting to the drive-in to city council on Monday.

Nanaimo Realty plans a 32-suite apartment block, service station and drive-in at 10th and Cliffe.

However, council approved the petitioners' request that no drive-in be allowed—but called for a public hearing before the decision becomes final.

Another petition by 12 garage owners objecting to the erection of a service station was turned down.

DUNCAN—Cowichan District School Board has accepted a fire protection rate by Mill Bay Fire Protection District of $17.50 per classroom.

Acceptance followed a meeting between trustee Pat Mason and the protection district committee after the board's last meeting, which considered the rate too high.

They changed their minds after it was pointed out five schools come under the protection scheme.

PARKSVILLE — The biggest ever Prairie People's Picnic here was attended by over 2,500 prairie people living on the Island and Lower Mainland.

Joan MacDonald, 16, of Parksville, was crowned Prairie Queen. Alberta won the tug-of-war and Walter Sorke, of Port Alberni, won the old-time fiddling contest.

Another Prairie People's Day will be held at Nanaimo on Saturday and Sunday.

DUNCAN — The combined Cowichan fraternal organizations' picnic will be held at Moose Home, on Quamichan Lake on Sunday.

Highlights of the day will be softball and horseshoe pitching competitions between the various organizations.

Entertainment will be laid on for children, including races, and there will be free pop, hot dogs and ice cream.

DUNCAN—Trustee Pat Mason or trustee Dr. Neil Dornning will represent Cowichan School Board at the Canadian School Trustees Association's convention in Winnipeg this September.

DUNCAN—The Jaycees here will hold their 13th annual banquet at the Maple Bay Inn Aug. 1, for the installation of new president George Schmidt and the executive.

COURTENAY—Plans for the new livestock building will be rushed through to try and complete it in time for the fall fair, September 4, 5 and 7.

The 48 by 100-foot building will be of truss-type construction with plywood walls. Much of the work will be done by volunteer labor.

Passenger Hurt

DUNCAN — The passenger in a car which went out of control near Lake Cowichan over the weekend was in good condition in Victoria's Royal Jubilee Hospital today.

Roy Dorchak, of Harris Creek, was transferred to Victoria with head and arm injuries.

Oyster Purifying Tested

With ever-increasing restriction on the sale of oysters grown in contaminated waters, Vancouver Island growers are considering using purifying methods already in use in the U.S. and Europe.

The provincial health department recently clamped restrictions on growers in the Sooke and Ladysmith areas after high bacteria counts were discovered in several oyster beds.

Now, oysters taken from restricted leases are being purified by relaying in clean water for a quarantine period of two weeks.

SALT-WATER WELL

And at least one grower in the Ladysmith area is experimenting with a salt-water well to supply his oyster shucking plant.

The sand in such a well acts as a filter to remove bacteria from the water, making it acceptable for oyster growing even though the sea water from which it draws is contaminated.

Consideration is being given to large oyster tanks on the same principle.

Without the innovation of these methods many growers are in danger of going out of business.

TOTAL BAN

A total ban becomes effective today in Esquimalt Harbor where grower David McMillan has had an oyster lease for 37 years.

And there will be no change in status of either restricted or closed oyster leases until results from new bacteria tests to be taken in October are known.

At present 78 leaseholders work 2,527 acres of foreshore. Last year the marketed value of B.C. oysters was $781,000.

Fined $350

DUNCAN — George William Huish of Duncan, was fined $250 for assault causing bodily harm on a Duncan girl at a party in June and warned by Magistrate D. K. McAdam in magistrate's court Monday that he will go to prison for 30 days if it happens again. He was also ordered to put up a $350 bond to keep the peace.

107 STUDENTS TO SEE SHOW

DUNCAN — Two buses will take 107 school children from here to the Queen Elizabeth Theatre, Vancouver, to see the "Littlest Circus" today.

Eight adults will be in charge of the party which leaves from Duncan Elementary School at 9:30 a.m.

The trip, organized by members of Duncan-Alexander PTA, will return at 8 p.m. the same day.

REASSESSMENTS

Tax Jolt Due Oak Bay Owners

Oak Bay ratepayers will discover just how valuable their property has become in the last few years when they receive their assessment notice in 1965.

Not only has property in Oak Bay tripled in value since 1960, it has more than doubled in the past eight years, and assessments are merely catching up with the market value, said Oak Bay assessor, Colin Wyatt.

In 1962, all land was reassessed in Oak Bay in order to bring the assessed values into line with 50 per cent of the market value, as set out in the Assessment Equalization Act.

This year, all land is being reassessed again with more recent market values, and the increase in assessments is estimated to be around 40 per cent.

LITTLE LEFT

The law of supply and demand has taken over in Oak Bay, said the president of the Real Estate Board, D. G. J. Humphries.

In Oak Bay, where there are only a few small parcels of vacant land left, land values have gone up by about 90 per cent in the last five years, and by 45 per cent in the last couple of years in the Hudson Bay area, said Mr. Humphries.

Mr. Humphries predicted there would be a substantial increase in assessments in all areas, but in certain districts, such as the Uplands which saw an increase of 25 per cent last year, the increase will be slightly lower.

Land assessed at $880 in 1961 and increased to $1,050 in 1962, will this year be assessed at approximately $1,500.

Sale values for 1961, '62 and '63, which have been screened by the provincial assessment commission, are being used to prepare the assessed values for 1965.

Assessed values on improvements in Oak Bay have not in-

LACK OF SUN DULLS EVEN FLOWER BEDS

Moist weather this summer is disappointing some visitors to the city expecting to be dazzled by park floral displays.

Rainfall has been good for lawns and shrubs and for bringing flower beds along, but, says administrator Herb Warren:

"What we need is some heat to make them bloom."

Beacon Hill Park's display of summer flowers is renowned far and wide, partly through color slides taken by visitors.

But Oak Bay is not the only municipality in the Greater Victoria area where land values are going up.

In the city major buildings have not yet been reassessed, but it is already estimated that there will be an increase of $300,000 in the assessed value of smaller properties.

In Saanich, where land values have been advancing rapidly in improved areas, it is reported there will be approximately a 50 per cent increase in the value of land in the Gordon Head, Shelbourne and Lake Hill areas.

When land is at a premium there is no place to go but up.

Montreal Reading Seven Newspapers

MONTREAL (CP)—Metro-Express made its first appearance on newsstands Tuesday increasing to seven the number of daily newspapers in Montreal.

The morning tabloid is the second French-language daily to start publication here since La Presse, Montreal's largest daily, suspended publication June 4 following a typographers' strike.

Le Journal de Montreal, an afternoon tabloid, began publishing June 15.

Facelift Set For Vancouver Business Area

VANCOUVER (CP) — The city's proposed $120,000,000 program to revitalize its downtown core took two steps closer to reality Tuesday.

The provincial government announced it was going ahead with plans for a $12,000,000 office building and court house annex adjacent to the present court house.

At the same time Eaton's of Canada announced it would definitely build a new department store as soon as the city's related development program got rolling.

City council met Tuesday and approved its part of the project, involving the initiation of world-wide negotiations with private investors to rebuild an entire block in the heart of the business district.

The entire project, covering 12 city blocks, centres on Georgia and Granville Streets. The proposed Eaton's store, estimated by city officials to cost about $20,000,000, would be located on the southwest corner.

VARIETY NOW

The entire block to be developed by the city is on the northwest corner. A variety of small shops and offices are currently located in the area.

The Hudson's Bay store occupies the northeast corner and the southeast corner block contains a large jewelry store, theatre and numerous stores and offices.

The land the government announced it had taken title to Tuesday is on another block to the west of the proposed Eaton's store. The new building would be constructed behind the present courthouse which fronts on Georgia.

Part of the downtown redevelopment project would be a new $8,000,000 sports coliseum opposite the Queen Elizabeth Theatre on Georgia. The coliseum, under negotiation between the city and the Toronto Maple Leafs, would occupy land several blocks east of centre point.

Various other construction programs were planned as part of the development including a $5,500,000 expansion to the Hotel Vancouver in the adjacent block west of the existing courthouse.

City Leaders Pay Tribute To Alderman

A simple quotation from the Book of Revelation accompanied the late Arthur Dowell to his grave Tuesday as a crowded chapel paid final tribute to his memory.

"They may rest in their labors and their works do follow them," Rev. John H. Garden read during the brief United Church service at Sands.

It reflected the 14 years the late alderman served on city council and the numerous community works with which he was involved, touching citizens from many walks of life.

Pallbearers were all employees of the cartage and storage firm bearing the Dowell name, which he helped build into a major enterprise. They were:

The casket bore a single red floral spray and white cross.

Among those who gathered before it were Mayor R. B. Wilson and other aldermen, business and professional leaders, people from the industrial and service organizations and many friends.

For two hours — spanning the service — city hall was closed, and Ald. Dowell's council chamber desk was draped with crepe and set with flowers.

Meeting Series On Religions Planned for '65

A series of meetings on contemporary religions is being planned for next spring by the Victoria Council of Churches.

Experts will speak on the doctrines of Jews, Muslims, Buddhists and Sikhs, as well as Christians, says Canon Hilary Butler.

The series will be undertaken as part of International Co-operation Year, 1965.

David Prosser, chairman of the local interfaith committee for international co-operation year, says he will call a meeting before the end of July for representatives of all faiths.

Its purpose will be to get all church leaders to inspire church groups and members to active participation in progress for international co-operation.

B.C. Asks Medicare Deterrent

By FRANK BUTTER

OTTAWA — B.C. wants to charge the public a basic fee for medicare like the existing $1 a day hospital insurance plan. The provincial government also wants full administrative control of medicare and is opposed to an independent commission running it.

These were the two major conditions laid down here Tuesday by Health Minister Eric Martin at a federal-provincial medicare conference.

The B.C. government in a brief presented to Health Minister Judy LaMarsh and other provincial ministers endorsed the principles of the Hall royal commission report.

But Mr. Martin strongly objected to some specific recommendations which he said violated the constitutional rights of the provinces. The main one was the commission's proposal for independent boards to run medicare in each province.

WON'T RELINQUISH

"Any such suggestion is contrary to the constitutional authority vested in the province to administer its health programs and B.C. will not relinquish its responsibility in this regard," Mr. Martin said.

His idea for medicare is to impose a deterrent fee which would attempt to discourage indiscriminate use of the scheme by the public.

This fee would be in addition to any medicare tax. No amount was mentioned at Tuesday's conference, which dealt in broad principles.

In fact Mr. Martin said that B.C. is not yet ready for medicare and wants more time to study the royal commission report.

He said the provinces should be completely free to raise medicare money any way they choose. The federal government would pay half the cost.

However, it was learned that what he has in mind is a fee similar to the B.C.H.S. charge. All hospital patients must pay $1 a day toward their bills.

But Mr. Martin wants to go a step further. At present the federal and provincial governments share equally the cost of a patient's day in hospital after the $1 has been deducted.

Mr. Martin proposed that the B.C.H.S. agreement be changed so Ottawa would pay half the total bill, or an additional 50 cents to cover half the patients' $1 charge.

A similar arrangement would follow for all medicare services. This would mean the B.C. government would directly pay slightly less than half of the health bill.

The patient would have to make a small contribution in addition to any taxes he might pay.

VAGRANTS BUY KIDS LIQUOR

PORT COQUITLAM (CP)—Magistrate J. J. Lye charged Tuesday that police in nearby New Westminster are ignoring the fact derelicts are buying liquor for juveniles.

The magistrate made the charge in fining Albert Edward Berrow of Port Coquitlam, a minor, $50 for illegal possession of liquor.

Magistrate Lye said vagrants loitering around New Westminster liquor stores are buying juveniles liquor on a commission basis.

"In New Westminster police are well aware what's going on, but nothing is being done to combat the situation," he said.

'Keep Guns Cleaned' Reds Told

WARSAW (AP)—"Clean our weapons, always keep our vigilance and stay on full alert," Soviet Premier Khrushchev told the Communist bloc Tuesday night after attacking Senator Barry Goldwater and the Republican platform.

Khrushchev spoke at a celebration of Poland's 20th anniversary as a Communist nation after the United States and British ambassadors walked out in protest against attacks on U.S. policy by Polish Communist Party Chief Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Assailing the Republican platform as warlike, Khrushchev said it was adopted in San Francisco "in an atmosphere reminiscent of the Fascist (Nazi) gatherings in Nuremberg."

"The candidate put forward for the presidency," Khrushchev continued without calling Goldwater by name, "made it clear that he wants to enter the White House under the slogans of unbridled anti-Communism and war threats."

"The Soviet Union has already existed for 47 years. During this period we have seen various mad and half-mad men. We have never been afraid nor are we afraid of threats. We cannot be indifferent, however, to war threats."

NEW YORK (AP)—Professional agitators were reported today to be calling the tune in Negro rioting in New York with financial aid from both Communists and white racists.

City Council President Paul R. Screvane has said fringe groups including Communists have had a part in fomenting the disorders.

The report that the extreme right also had a hand in stirring the violence came from The Daily News.

"In an unholy alliance, one high source disclosed, both the Communies and the extreme southern right wings have been supporting the Black Muslims because they are the most violent muscle unit," the newspaper says.

"In fact, the Muslims have bragged of receiving money from a Texas millionaire whom they don't hesitate to identify," The Daily News does not identify the man.

Police sources have declined comment.

Denies Politics Before Senators

By FRANK BUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

OTTAWA — Premier W. A. C. Bennett today countered charges that the Bank of B.C. will be political by slashing the amount of provincial government investment.

He set a firm limit of 10 per cent and told the senate banking committee it may be less than 5 per cent.

But he stuck to his guns on some government participation in the $100 million bank.

"I want to make very clear the intention of the government to buy shares," he said.

UNIQUE ROLE

It became obvious as soon as senators began cross-examining the premier that the main opposition to the bank is the unique role the B.C. government is playing in promoting it.

And Mr. Bennett, who first obtained the authority of the B.C. legislature to buy 25 per cent of the bank's shares, cut it to 10, and later in the morning to "maybe even less than 5 per cent."

He also agreed to a clause in the bank charter limiting government investment of any kind to 10 per cent.

Mr. Bennett announced that he has lined up "an outstanding Canadian banker"—whom he will identify later—to be president and chief executive officer of the Vancouver-based bank.

Einar M. Gunderson, one of the banks' provisional directors, told the senators that "conversations have taken place" and the mystery banker is willing to take the job.

O'LEARY PROBES

Sen. Gratton O'Leary moved in on the political angle by asking if the B.C. government would still insist on being a shareholder if the bank's stock issue becomes oversubscribed by the public.

"The larger the public subscription the smaller the government buys," replied Mr. Bennett.

"It will most likely be less than 10 per cent, maybe even less than five."

But the government will insist on buying shares, he said, because "we want to make sure no little group gets control of this bank and amalgamates with another bank."

Mr. Bennett assured Sen. Thomas Crerar that there will be no additional government investment in an indirect way such as through crown corporations.

"Any government would be very stupid indeed to try to run a partisan bank," the premier said. "It would be a most foolhardy thing" because those adversely affected by bank loan policies would turn against the government.

Sen. Crerar wondered what would happen if in the future there was a socialist government in B.C., which presumably might seek further control of the bank.

The premier agreed to having a specific limit of 10 per cent direct or indirect government investment being set out in the bank charter.

Mr. Bennett said the whole $100 million capital stock of the bank would be issued to launch it.

The stock price has not been set, Mr. Gunderson added, but it will be sufficiently above par.

Socred Critics Want the Bank Bennett Crows

OTTAWA—The worst critics of the Social Credit government have signed petitions backing the Bank of B.C., Premier W. A. C. Bennett said here today.

He read a glittering list of prominent names to support his submission for a bank charter before the senate banking committee.

They include J. Stuart Keate, former publisher of the Victoria Times and now publisher of the Vancouver Sun.

"Of our worst critics in all the years, it's been the Victoria Times and the Vancouver Sun—and here's the former publisher of the Times and the present publisher of the Sun that has signed this petition," Mr. Bennett said.

Also on the petition was the signature of Donald Cromie, the previous Sun publisher.

A total of 12,505 people have signed petitions urging the parliament to approve a charter, Mr. Bennett said.

They include prominent members of the Liberal and Conservative parties.

"How can anybody say that this is a political bank?" the premier asked the senate after reading about 30 names.

They included two former Lieutenant-Governors, Frank M. Ross and Clarence Wallace; noted Conservative Leon Lader of Vancouver; former mayor Beth Wood of New Westminster; ex-mayor of Vancouver Fred Hume; oil tycoon Frank McMahon; philanthropist Walter Koerner; lawyer C. W. Brazier and wine king Pasquale Capozzi.

Stuart Keate, Sun publisher, made the following comment on the premier's statement:

"When Waldo Skillings approached me to sign the petition, I said I would do so on condition that the government would agree to follow The Sun editorial policy, which was that the bank should be divested of all political representation and influence."

Vancouver Won't Part With Its 'Moby Doll'

A killer whale caught last week in the Strait of Georgia and now fighting for her life in a Vancouver drydock is not for sale.

"This is the finest aquarium specimen anyone could possibly have," Dr. Murray Newman, curator of the Vancouver Aquarium, told the Times today when he made it clear the whale will remain at Vancouver.

"Why would we sell it?" he asked. "We've waited long enough to get it."

If the animal survived and was sold to Marineland in Los Angeles it would be worth $1,000,000, said Dr. Newman.

INTEREST SCIENTIFIC

But Vancouver aquarium officials are interested in the whale for scientific, not commercial, reasons.

"We're definitely going to keep it," he said. "We know Mr. White (Charles White of the Undersea Gardens at Oak Bay, who has offered to pay $20,000 for the whale) would get rich if he had it, but we're not interested in that."

Officially dubbed Moby Doll by Dr. Newman, the 7,500-pound killer whale is reported to be working up a healthy appetite.

Today she devoured a second cod, which had been pumped with a massive dose of vitamin B-12 to stimulate her appetite, and two salmon. When the food was lowered into the flooded drydock today the whale became very excited and squealed loudly, aquarium officials reported.

Moby Doll is still making strange noises and scientists are trying to determine whether or not she is pregnant.

VANCOUVER DOOMED

VANCOUVER (CP)—Put that killer whale back in the sea, warns Maiste Hurley, or terrible disaster will befall Vancouver.

Miss Hurley, a 76-year-old expert on Indian lore, should know. Her courtesy Indian title is Chief Sim-Klux, or mother of the fin-back whales. Fin back is the Indian name for the killer whale.

"It will be terribly unlucky to keep the whale," said Miss Hurley, referring to the 17-foot killer whale Moby-Doll captured alive at sea and penned up here.

"Not only will disaster befall Vancouver but the whale will die."

Cold Water Poured on Lake Scheme

Victoria parks committee today poured cold water on a proposed warm water bathing development for young children and non-swimmers.

Vic-Van Isle Kinsmen Club asked the committee to look at plans it has for improvement to city-owned Thetis Lake Park, including a concrete-walled pool enclosing a shallow immediately fronting the change house area.

The idea was discouraged because of the proximity of deep, dangerous water where

Committee members Ald. M. H. Mooney, A. W. Toone, Cecil Parrott and Geoffrey Edgelow, with city manager Dennis Young, parks administrator Herb Warren and a Kinsmen delegation led by Thetis committee chairman Sandy Grant, toured the site.

The club offers to build a $6,000 concrete block concession, and erect new signs in the park; to clean up deadfalls and encourage more parking space, a kiddies' play area and general beautification of the popular summer spa.

Committee members felt priority should be given to parking and the new buildings, concurring with the need meanwhile for some new signs and improvement in the area adjoining the change house, where it is proposed to dump sand donated by Evans, Coleman Ltd.

CITY HAS PLANS

The city has its own plans for a new change house.

Mr. Young suggested an architect should be engaged to prepare proper plans for the committee to consider before it is decided which building to start with.

Ald. Edgelow urged the club to "forget about the kiddies' bathing area."

"This is not a small child's lake," he said. "Let them be here, but don't encourage them."

Mr. Young added that what the Kinsmen propose for a beach enclosure would be very expensive, costing perhaps $30,000.

FOUR-FOOT WALK

The wall would run about 20 feet from the shore and have a four-foot walk along it to help with supervision of children, the club suggests. This water would be between two and three feet deep.

"It's no do-it-yourself project," Mr. Young commented when Mr. Grant proposed:

"We're going to do a lot of the work, not just give the city the money for it."

"If you're thinking this is a baby's place to play, forget it," Ald. Edgelow said. "You're going to have youngsters going out to the edge there and drown."

SUDDEN SLOPE

The beach slopes off suddenly, making water 20 feet deep within a dozen yards of the shore.

Mr. Young suggested that the lake's "second beach," around a point from the change house, might better be developed for youngsters.

Mr. Warren agreed that this would take the "little tots" away from the swimmer's area, but it was pointed out that a second lifeguard would then have to be hired.

Semi-Metro Election Meets Set

Public meetings in the outlying areas of Greater Victoria next week will assist in getting nominees to plan B.C.'s first joint services board.

The board—proposed by Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell—would consist of municipal and unorganized area representatives embracing Greater Victoria, Colwood, View Royal, Langford, Sooke, Metcalfe and North Saanich.

Representatives at large from the six latter areas will be elected from nominees whose names are entered by Aug. 3 deadline. They will assist the municipal delegates and representatives of the municipal affairs department in framing legislation for the joint services board.

The public meetings will lead off with one in View Royal Monday night. Others are posted in the areas concerned.

Elections Aug. 15 will be on the basis of school voters' lists and returning officers have been appointed. New names may be added to the list by affidavit.

Candidates for the joint board must be British subjects and landowners over 21.

The group will hold private discussions to frame proposed legislation.

THURSDAY MEETINGS

S.S. Beaver Kiwanis: Tally Ho Hotel, 7:30 a.m.; Col. Bill Symonds. "Preserving B.C. Maritime History."

Arthur Mayse

Charlie White is a great guy, and his Undersea Gardens a boon to both visitors and Victorians, but his bid for Clara the chirping killer whale as an addition to his sub-aqueous circus does raise a point or two which could stand weighing.

Clara herself—at least I think she's a her—seems to be a pretty decent kild, as young killers go, and once Mr. White has tempted her appetite back with a couple of scuba divers, I don't see why she shouldn't be reasonably content in her projected Oak Bay pen.

What I find myself wondering, though, is what's going to happen when the novelty of stardom wears off, nature asserts itself, and she decides to chirp up a few of the boys.

The wild bunch, as I can all too easily visualize it, intercepts that first plaintive chirp while cruising in formation off Discovery Island light.

"Calling all killer whales," comes the message, faint but distinct. "It's me, Clara! I'm all alone and very lonely."

"Hussy!" That's Alice, the white killer who on occasion has attracted a deal of attention in our South Island waters. "Ignore her, Orville. I knew she'd come to a bad end... I tried to warn her..."

Orville, the big bull orca, humps his five-foot spike of a dorsal fin through the surface. "Yeah, yeah," he growls in a bass chirp. "You told me that already. But look, the girl's lonely, maybe she's in trouble. I'm going in for a look."

He reverses course and cruises at half speed toward Oak Bay. "Hey," he chirps, "it's been a long time, kid. Not since that night off North Pender... How they treating you in there, honey?"

"Oh, well enough, I suppose. It comes in a soft little sigh. "But you know how I am about people. It's terrible, Orville. They come and stare at me. All day, all night. They just stand and stare. Then there's this man from the museum, quite nice and I'm glad to help science, really. Only he gets so... so familiar at times..."

Orville, who is now inshore

of Discovery Island, snorts vapour.

"He does, huh? Well, we don't have to stand for anything like that." He tosses his 11 tons and 22 feet clear of the water, crashes back with an impact that stuns several coho-salmon, and pours on the coal.

"Give me a bearing, Clara baby," he chirps through gritted ivory choppers. "I'm coming in!"

Alice, meanwhile, has been tagging anxiously after.

"No, Orville," she pleads. "She brought it on herself, she's simply not worth it. Think of science. Look at all those little boats in the way!"

"You don't have to come," Orville chirps over a massive shoulder. "Matter of fact, why don't you get lost? G'wan up to Ladysmith and give the natives a thrill!"

He is now ripping past Chain Island at flank speed.

"Hell with science!" he chirps, and cracks his throttle wide.

Directly on course, a 12-foot-six white plywood boat is peddling to the push of a beat-up little 3-horse outboard.

The boat is kind of scruffy too, and the man draped languidly in the sternsheets wouldn't pass muster at anybody's garden party. He is wearing cuffed-down rubber boots—he's careful about that—and he ought to be home edging the lawn.

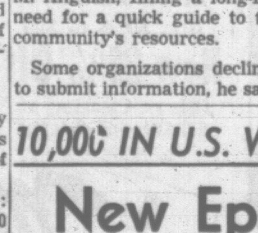

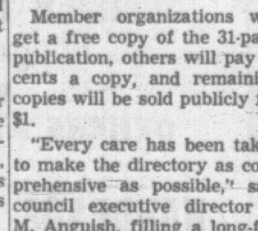

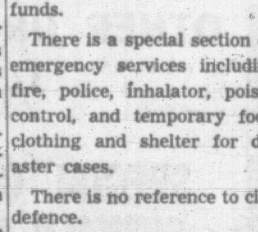

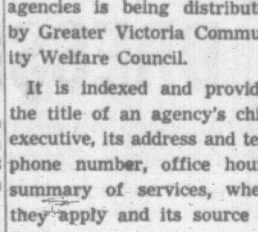

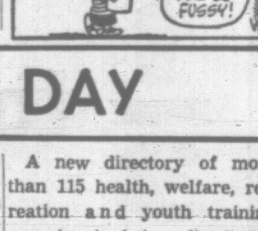

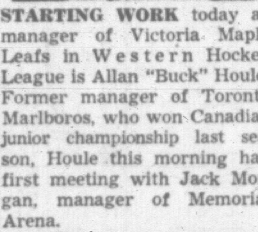

He's happy, though, catching no fish but at peace with the world.

Or is, until he looks up to see that tall black dorsal driving in behind a low wave from 40 feet away.

Do I make my point?

I'm all for science, and I think Clara the killer would fetch us paying guests from far and wide.

But we don't much like her boy friends, and if you get her, Charlie, I hope you'll take care of that come-hither chirp!

TOPICS of the DAY

Prof. Walter Young of the University of British Columbia and vice-president of the provincial New Democratic Party, and David Stupich, MLA for Nanaimo will be guest speakers at the NDP picnic, Sunday in Metcalfe.

Picknickers will feast on barbecued salmon and take part in games and sports at Geoff Mitchell's Sea Bluff Farm in Metcalfe.

Picnic time is 1 p.m., and in the event of rain it will be postponed until Aug. 2.

Albert MacLennan, Lincoln Hotel, was reported in good condition in Royal Jubilee Hospital at press time.

City police said MacLennan was on the second rung from the top of the ladder when it broke and he fell. MacLennan was self-employed.

A woman who drove her car on Douglas Street while she was impaired Tuesday night was fined $300 when she appeared in court this morning.

Mrs. Eileen Hall, 2307 McBride, also lost her driving licence. She was stopped by police after her car was seen weaving over the road.

A breathalyzer test showed she had a blood alcohol content of .23 per cent.

The fishing derby, being held between 1 and 4 p.m. is part of the annual city playground program.

A new directory of more than 115 health, welfare, recreation and youth training agencies is being distributed by Greater Victoria Community Welfare Council.

It is indexed and provides the title of an agency's chief executive, its address and telephone number, office hours, summary of services, where they apply and its source of funds.

There is a special section on emergency services including fire, police, inhalator, poison control, and temporary food, clothing and shelter for disaster cases.

There is no reference to civil defence.

Member organizations will get a free copy of the 31-page publication, others will pay 50 cents a copy, and remaining copies will be sold publicly for $1.

"Every care has been taken to make the directory as comprehensive as possible," said council executive director J. M. Anguish, filling a long-felt need for a quick guide to the community's resources.

Some organizations declined to submit information, he said.

New Epidemic Threatens—Walking Through Doors

Wider use of plate glass doors in Victoria calls for safety precautions, hospital officials and glass distributors warned today.

The installations have caused a wave of injuries in the United States from people walking through the doors while they are closed. So far there have been few similar accidents in B.C.

But in the last year floor-to-ceiling glass has gained tremendous popularity and is going into nearly every new home and high-rise apartment, says Gerry Hansen, manager of Pittsburgh Glass in Victoria.

This will cause an increased number of accidents unless safety precautions are followed, he said.

Thick, unbreakable glass or marks made with paint or decals at eye level are the best safeguards, he advised.

Hospital officials warned that the injuries suffered by someone walking through plate glass are usually "very severe."

According to the American Medical Association, next year

probably 10,000 persons will try to walk through a glass door, partition or picture window which they did not realize was there.

Some 6,000 of them will wind up in hospital with severe cuts. A few will bleed to death before a physician can get to them.

So far this year Victoria hospitals

Patient's Arm Injury 'Violent'

A Victoria doctor stated in coroner's court here today that he did not think 86-year-old Mrs. Jessie Charlton Little could have suffered a broken, dislocated arm in the Glengarry Private Hospital through her own movements in bed.

"Her arm appeared to have been wrenched," said general practitioner Dr. John W. E. Hunt, "and it would take some force to cause the injury. I cannot see how Mrs. Little could have applied this force to herself."

Mrs. Little died in St. Joseph's Hospital on Feb. 28 after being moved from the Glengarry Hospital the day before. Dr. Garth Walther, assistant pathologist at St. Joseph's stated earlier that Mrs. Little's broken, dislocated arm was a factor contributing to her death.

Dr. Walther gave evidence when the inquest opened in the RCMP courtroom at the law courts on July 8. It was resumed in Victoria County Court today.

UNABLE TO SIT

Dr. Hunt who attended Mrs. Little in the Glengarry private hospital and St. Joseph's, said Mrs. Little was unable to get out of bed, could not turn over in bed or sit up in bed.

"It would take a pretty violent movement to dislocate the shoulder and cause the fracture. There was no evidence of any disease of the bone or a tumor to account for a pathological fracture."

"It was a normal bone for a woman of her age."

"Would it be possible for Mrs. Little to have caused this fracture herself by her movements in bed?" asked the coroner, Edmond J. de St. Jorre.

HOLD BEDSHEET

"I don't think so," Dr. Hunt replied. "The only thing I have ever seen Mrs. Little do with her arms was to hold the edge of the bedsheet. I don't even know if she would have been capable of moving her arms."

"Did you ever see an attendant at Glengarry Hospital move Mrs. Little?" asked the coroner.

"I don't recall it," the doctor replied.

Dr. Hunt said, after he was called to attend Mrs. Little in the Glengarry Hospital on Feb. 27, he ordered her to be moved to St. Joseph's for X-rays to be taken.

Victoria lawyer George F. Gregory, appearing for Mrs. Little's daughter, Mrs. Evelyn McLeod, suggested Dr. Hunt should have been called to the Glengarry Hospital earlier.

David Hummel, appearing for the Glengarry Hospital, said Mrs. Little's daughter (Mrs. McLeod) asked for a doctor to be called after seeing her in the Glengarry Hospital, but one had already been called.

At the previous hearing, Mr. Hummel said, Mr. Gregory had made mention of "a scandal" at the Glengarry Hospital. He asked if Mr. Gregory intended to "pursue" this suggestion.

Mr. Gregory said the only reference to a scandal was made when he was examining Mrs. Alfreda Milliken, former nursing superintendent at Glengarry.

He asked Mrs. Milliken if she was entirely satisfied with the way the hospital was being run and she replied "yes."

'NO SCANDAL'

Mr. Gregory then said "I put it to you that when you discussed it with Mr. and Mrs. McLeod, you said you were leaving because a scandal was going to break."

"Oh, my goodness, no," Mrs. Milliken replied.

"That was my only reference to a scandal," Mr. Gregory said. "I did not pursue whether or not there was a scandal after Mrs. Milliken denied it."

"But you did say something went wrong," Mr. Hummel replied.

Mr. Gregory said it was obvious something had "gone wrong" when Mrs. Little suffered a broken, dislocated arm.

Mrs. Maria Margaret Ernst, a former nurse at the Glengarry hospital, said it was customary for two people to lift Mrs. Little when she was uncomfortable in bed, but it would be possible for one person to lift her.

Answering Mr. Hummel, Mrs. Ernst said she never heard of any order that Mrs. Little must only be lifted by two people.

"Do you consider she had adequate care?" asked Mr. Hummel.

"I certainly hope so," Mrs. Ernst replied.

'GOOD CARE'

Earlier, Dr. Hunt was asked by Mr. Hummel if he considered Mrs. Little received "good care" at the hospital.

"Yes," he replied.

"Would you send another patient to that hospital?" asked Mr. Hummel.

Dr. Hunt again answered "Yes." He stated that the Glengarry was comparable to any other private nursing home in Victoria.

The inquest continued this afternoon and is expected to continue Thursday. Eight or nine more witnesses are being called.

'Defiance, Contempt' Bring 6-Months Term

A man told Monday that he was still disqualified from driving, went out Tuesday, got drunk and drove his car.

James Erickson, 2218 Sayward, was caught when his car collided with two vehicles parked on the road up to the Lookout in Beacon Hill Park Tuesday night.

He was sent to jail this morning for six months for drunk driving and driving while disqualified. Magistrate William Ostler said his behavior showed "defiance and contempt" for the law.

Erickson was so drunk he had to be supported by police to keep from falling. He registered the high reading of .33 per cent blood alcohol when tested on a breathalyzer at the police station.

Erickson in the past has been twice convicted of driving while impaired and once of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

It was these infractions, in addition to traffic violations, that resulted in his being disqualified from driving several years ago. On Monday the motor vehicle branch informed him his disqualification would continue until he obtained adequate insurance coverage.

In city court today Erickson told the magistrate he would "appreciate" leniency in his sentence.

But Magistrate Ostler said Erickson had shown only the

"grossest type of contempt" for law by his behavior.

The magistrate told him, "Your reaction to the continued disqualification was to go out, get drunk and drive a car."

Magistrate Ostler also prohibited Erickson from driving anywhere in Canada for three years. The magistrate added that if it were possible for him to have made the prohibition longer he would have done so.

Ask The Times

Q. Will you kindly explain the difference between a murder charge and a non-capital murder charge?—K.F.S.

A. Capital and non-capital murder are two degrees of murder. A person or persons are charged depending on the circumstances surrounding the slaying.

If the murder is pre-meditated, it is capital murder. If liquor or provocation was involved in the killing, the charge would be reduced to non-capital murder.

A capital murder conviction results in the death penalty and a non-capital murder conviction would result in a prison sentence or commitment to a mental institution.

Q. If a submarine travels at a speed of 15 knots at a 100-foot depth, at what speed would it travel at a 1,000-foot depth, assuming the same driving force?—J.P.T.

A. Its speed would decrease about one one-hundredth of a knot according to calculations based on the compressibility of the water and the drag of the sub.

WEEKEND 14 CENTSRace War Hits Brooklyn
With Violence, Looting

By RICHARD F. WHALEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Racial violence and widespread looting broke out in Brooklyn's Negro section throughout the night. Police bullets critically wounded two Negroes.

Harlem, meanwhile, had its first relatively quiet night in four days.

In Brooklyn's Bedford-Stuyvesant section police fired at looters. Dozens of store windows were broken.

About two dozen persons were arrested.

On orders from President Johnson, FBI agents began an investigation of the disturbances. Mayor Robert F. Wagner was back from a European vacation trip he cut short because of the violence.

Acting Mayor Paul R. Screvane said the Harlem disorders had been incited in part by "fringe groups, including the Communist party."

He suggested the FBI agents might investigate the source of money for some street rallies and for some of the "very inflammatory... anti-American... and seditious statements." Wagner said he would look into the report of Communist influence. He also said he did not believe federal troops or the national guard would be needed to preserve order.

Police reported a number of burglaries in Harlem, the big Negro neighborhood in Manhattan. A few shots were fired by police to disperse unruly gatherings. But there were no large crowds, demonstrations or anything like the weekend rioting and looting.

$1 A VISIT

B.C. Asks
Medicare
Deterrent

By FRANK RUTTER

OTTAWA — B.C. wants to charge the public a basic fee for medicare like the existing $1 a day hospital insurance plan. The provincial government also wants full administrative control of medicare and is opposed to an independent commission running it.

These were the two major conditions laid down here Tuesday by Health Minister Eric Martin at a federal-provincial medicare conference.

The B.C. government in a brief presented to Health Minister Judy LaMarsh and other provincial ministers endorsed the principles of the Hall royal commission report.

But Mr. Martin strongly objected to some specific recommendations which he said violated the constitutional rights of the provinces. The main one was the commission's proposal for independent boards to run medicare in each province.

WON'T RELINQUISH

"Any such suggestion is contrary to the constitutional authority vested in the province to administer its health programs and B.C. will not relinquish its responsibility in this regard," Mr. Martin said.

His idea for medicare is to impose a deterrent fee which would attempt to discourage indiscriminate use of the scheme by the public.

This fee would be in addition to any medicare tax. No amount was mentioned at Tuesday's conference, which dealt in broad principles.

In fact Mr. Martin said that B.C. is not yet ready for medicare and wants more time to study the royal commission report.

He said the provinces should be completely free to raise medicare money any way they choose. The federal government would pay half the cost.

However, it was learned that what he has in mind is a fee similar to the B.C.H.S. charge. All hospital patients must pay $1 a day toward their bills.

But Mr. Martin wants to go a step further.

At present the federal and provincial governments share equally the cost of a patient's day in hospital after the $1 has been deducted.

Mr. Martin proposed that the B.C.H.S. agreement be changed so Ottawa would pay half the total bill, or an additional 50 cents to cover half the patients' $1 charge.

A similar arrangement would follow for all medicare services. This would mean the B.C. government would directly pay slightly less than half of the health bill.

The patient would have to make a small contribution in addition to any taxes he might pay.

'Keep Guns Cleaned'
Reds Told

WARSAW (AP) — "Clean our weapons, always keep our vigilance and stay on full alert," Soviet Premier Khrushchev told the Communist bloc Tuesday night after attacking Senator Barry Goldwater and the Republican platform.

Khrushchev spoke at a celebration of Poland's 20th anniversary as a Communist nation after the United States and British ambassadors walked out in protest against attacks on U.S. policy by Polish Communist Party Chief Wladyslaw Gomulka.

Assailing the Republican platform as warlike, Khrushchev said it was adopted in San Francisco "in an atmosphere reminiscent of the Fascist (Nazi) gatherings in Nuremberg."

"The candidate put forward for the presidency," Khrushchev continued without calling Goldwater by name, "made it clear that he wants to enter the White House under the slogans of unbridled anti-Communism and war threats."

"The Soviet Union has already existed for 47 years. During this period we have seen various mad and half-mad men. We have never been afraid nor are we afraid of threats. We cannot be indifferent, however, toward threats."

ELECTION DOUBTFUL

Gomulka also attacked Goldwater. He said it was doubtful the Republican candidate for the U.S. presidency would be elected, "but the very fact that a man of his calibre has been nominated illustrates by itself the danger threatening peace in the world on the part of aggressive imperialist circles in the United States and their West German allies, who demand nuclear weapons."

U.S. Ambassador John Moore Cabot walked out after Gomulka declared that the United States and West Germany have "a common platform of militant anti-Communism and of pushing the world to the brink of war."

CLOSE WATCH is being kept by Montreal police on the home of Hal Banks, deposed Seamen's International Union president, after two futile attempts to apprehend him and take him to prison Tuesday. He was to begin serving a 30-day sentence in Bordeaux Jail for contempt of court.

Vancouver Won't Part
With Its 'Moby Doll'

A killer whale caught last week in the Strait of Georgia and now fighting for her life in a Vancouver drydock is not for sale.

"This is the finest aquarium specimen anyone could possibly have," Dr. Murray Newman, curator of the Vancouver Aquarium, told the Times today when he made it clear the whale will remain at Vancouver.

"Why would we sell it?" he asked. "We've waited long enough to get it."

If the animal survived and was sold to Marineland in Los Angeles it would be worth $1,000,000, said Dr. Newman.

INTEREST SCIENTIFIC

But Vancouver aquarium officials are interested in the whale for scientific, not commercial, reasons.

"We're definitely going to keep it," he said. "We know Mr.

White (Charles White of the Undersea Gardens at Oak Bay, who has offered to pay $20,000 for the whale) would get rich if he had it, but we're not interested in that."

Officially dubbed Moby Doll by Dr. Newman, the 7,500-pound killer whale is reported to be working up a healthy appetite.

Today she devoured a second cod, which had been pumped with a massive dose of vitamin B-12 to stimulate her appetite, and two salmon.

When the food was lowered into the flooded drydock today the whale became very excited and squealed loudly, aquarium officials reported.

Moby Doll is still making strange noises and scientists are trying to determine whether or not she is pregnant.

Premier Faces
Senate QuizBy FRANK RUTTER
Times Legislative Reporter

OTTAWA — Premier W. A. C. Bennett today countered charges that the Bank of B.C. will be political by slashing the amount of provincial government investment.

He set a firm limit of 10 per cent and told the senate banking committee it may be less than 5 per cent.

But he stuck to his guns on some government participation in the $100 million bank.

"I want to make very clear the intention of the government to buy shares," he said.

UNIQUE ROLE

It became obvious as soon as senators began cross-examining the premier that the main opposition to the bank is the unique role the B.C. government is playing in promoting it.

And Mr. Bennett, who first obtained the authority of the B.C. legislature to buy 25 per cent of the bank's shares, cut it to 10, and later in the morning to "maybe even less than 5 per cent."

He also agreed to a clause in the bank charter limiting government investment of any kind to 10 per cent.

Mr. Bennett announced that he has lined up "an outstanding Canadian banker" — whom he will identify later — to be president and chief executive officer of the Vancouver-based bank.

Einar M. Gunderson, one of the banks' provisional directors, told the senators that "conversations have taken place" and the mystery banker is willing to take the job.

O'LEARY PROBES

Sen. Gratton O'Leary moved in on the political angle by asking if the B.C. government would still insist on being a shareholder if the bank's stock issue becomes oversubscribed by the public.

"The larger the public subscription the smaller the government buys," replied Mr. Bennett.

"It will most likely be less than 10 per cent, maybe even less than five."

But the government will insist on buying shares, he said, because "we want to make sure no little group gets control of this bank and amalgamates with another bank."

Mr. Bennett assured Sen. Thomas Crerar that there will be no additional government investment in an indirect way such as through crown corporations.

"Any government would be very stupid indeed to try to run a partisan bank," the premier said. "It would be a most foolhardy thing" because those adversely affected by bank loan policies would turn against the government.

Sen. Crerar wondered what would happen if in the future there was a socialist government in B.C., which presumably might seek further control of the bank.

The premier agreed to having a specific limit of 10 per cent direct or indirect government investment being set out in the bank charter.

Mr. Bennett said the whole $100 million capital stock of the bank would be issued to launch it.

The stock price has not been set, Mr. Gunderson added, but it will be sufficiently above par.

OTTAWA — The worst critics of the Social Credit government have signed petition backing the Bank of B.C. Premier W. A. C. Bennett said here today.

He read a glittering list of prominent names to support his submission for a bank charter before the senate banking committee.

They include J. Stuart Keate, former publisher of the Victoria Times and now publisher of the Vancouver Sun.

"Of our worst critics in all the years, it's been the Victoria Times and the Vancouver Sun — and here's the former publisher of the Times and the present publisher of the Sun that has signed this petition," Mr. Bennett said.

Also on the petition was the signature of Donald Cromie, the previous Sun publisher.

A total of 12,505 people have signed petitions urging the parliament to approve a charter, Mr. Bennett said.

They include prominent members of the Liberal and Conservative parties.

"How can anybody say that this is a political bank?" the premier asked the senate after reading about 30 names.

They included two former Lieutenant-Governors, Frank M. Ross and Clarence Wallace; noted Conservative Leo Lader of Vancouver; former mayor Beth Wood of New Westminster; ex-mayor of Vancouver Fred Hume; oil tycoon Frank McMahon; philanthropist Walter Koerner; lawyer C. W. Brazier and wine king Pasquale Capozzi.

Stuart Keate, Sun publisher, made the following comment on the premier's statement:

"When Waldo Skilling approached me to sign the petition, I said I would do so on condition that the government would agree to follow The Sun editorial policy, which was that the bank should be divested of all political representation and influence."

Merit Pay Lacks Merit Teachers Say

Rating teachers for merit pay is an unpopular idea with both Greater Victoria Teachers' Association and District 61 school trustees.

Both sides pour cold water on the concept of rating each school teacher according to some formula or pattern for purposes of rewarding the exceptional ones and downgrading the lackluster ones.

Opinions were given after B.C. School Trustees' Association circulated a questionnaire on the subject to affiliated school boards in the province.

"It's a hot potato," said Greater Victoria chairman Mrs. A. B. Thompson.

A committee of the association is investigating, she explained, but local trustees gave no encouragement to the idea.

In Mrs. Thompson's opinion, no board is likely to touch merit-rating.

Len Hawkins, spokesman for Greater Victoria Teachers' Association, said B.C. Teachers' Federation is opposed to merit pay. It has failed wherever tried, he said, and has been "banded about" in the U.S. for years.

It was brought in two or three years ago in one B.C. district and abandoned the following year, he said.

Merit-rating was found to cost more, for one thing. Mr. Hawkins said in this particular case the school board found many teachers were worth more than they were being paid, and few teachers were not working at peak or giving best value to their students.

NOT FAIR GAUGE To stop the system, teachers in that district resigned en masse at the end of the school term.

"It is not a fair gauge at all," Mr. Hawkins said. "Teachers are governed by their material. Give a baker a poor dough mix and he'll produce a flat loaf. It works that way with the human mind."

"If a teacher hasn't got a good mind in his pupil he can't produce results. A teacher can spread himself very thinly, too, on a group of 40 children with 40 different minds."

And in certain subjects, the end result is not a fair indicator, either. "The greatest morons can produce high marks, given enough ulterior motive," he pointed out.

10 YEARS ON "Merit as a teacher is measured by what kind of a person your student will be 10 years from now."

"Teachers rate themselves. A teacher builds a reputation as he gradually gets known. Principals get to know teachers, too, but I wouldn't like to be paid on a principal's opinion of me at certain times," Mr. Hawkins said.

The considerations in merit-rating are far-reaching and the machinery to operate the system can be cumbersome. It is found, the teacher spokesman said, that more inspectors, more supervisors and more teachers are needed.

"School boards are more interested in restricting teachers of low calibre than in rewarding those of high calibre."

"The school board here is far too wise to get into a merit-rating situation, where they would find they have little control," Mr. Hawkins said.

Barry Walt disappeared under the water at a campsite near Yellow Point, 12 miles south of here.

A good swimmer, he went down a chute into 15 feet of water and failed to come up.

It was several minutes before other swimmers realized he was missing.

Mouth to mouth resuscitation was tried but he was already dead.

The accident occurred at 6:30 p.m., shortly after Barry finished his evening meal.

The magistrate made the charge in fining Albert Edward Berrow of Port Coquitlam, a minor, $50 for illegal possession of liquor.

"In New Westminster police are well aware what's going on, but nothing is being done to combat the situation," he said.

Oyster Purifying Tested

With ever-increasing restriction on the sale of oysters grown in contaminated waters, Vancouver Island growers are considering using purifying methods already in use in the U.S. and Europe.

The provincial health department recently clamped restrictions on growers in the Sooke and Ladysmith areas after high bacteria counts were discovered in several oyster beds.

Now, oysters taken from restricted leases are being purified by relaying in clean water for a quarantine period of two weeks.

SALT-WATER WELL

And at least one grower in the Ladysmith area is experimenting with a salt-water well to supply his oyster shucking plant.

The sand in such a well acts as a filter to remove bacteria from the water, making it acceptable for oyster growing even though the sea water from which it draws is contaminated.

Consideration is being given to large oyster tanks on the same principle.

TOTAL BAN

A total ban becomes effective today in Esquimalt Harbor where grower David McMillan has had an oyster lease for 37 years.

And there will be no change in status of either restricted or closed oyster leases until results from new bacteria tests to be taken in October are known.

At present 78 leaseholders work 2,527 acres of foreshore. Last year the marketed value of B.C. oysters was $781,000.
